Huffer to Probe 'Lack of Action' At Marion Park

By STEVE JONES
Roy Huffer, Pickaway County State Representative, said yesterday he "intends to find out why the road leading to the dam site at Marion State Park has not been repaired."

The road's condition subject of a recent letter to the editor, is deplorable, according to Huffer.

Maintenance of the road apparently has developed into a departmental squabble between the Division of Parks and the State Highway Department.

Officials of the Division of Parks say it is not on park property. They claim it should be maintained by the State Highway Department.

HIGHWAY officials reply by saying they will do the necessary work, but funds must come from the Division of Parks.

Pickaway County and Washington Twp. officials point out the roadway was never a county or township road. They feel it does not fall within their jurisdiction to provide maintenance.

Before Hargus Lake was built, the road was an access lane to a farmhouse now used by Park Manager Cloyce Hattery as a home and park office.

Since the early part of the century, the road had been maintained by the occupant of the old home.

Hattery has made efforts to have the road repaired since he became manager at A. W. Marion Park early this year. And although he has been told it will be improved, no action has yet been taken.

Marvin Rebholz, chief of the Division of Parks, in a telephone interview with The Herald said the "road will definitely be repaired by next season."

IT WAS Rebholz who said the responsibility for repair "had developed into a departmental squabble."

Section 1541.03 of the Ohio Revised code lists the duties of the Division of Parks. One of those designated is: "To construct and maintain such roads and drive ins, around, upon and to such lands and waters as shall make them conveniently accessible and useful to the public."

The state legislature during the past summer made two separate appropriations which are earmarked for Marion State Park. The first was for $50,000 and the second for $60,000.

About one-half of this amount supposedly is to be used for acquisition, the remainder for physical improvements.

PUMPKIN SHOW UNDER WAY

Ted Unable To Attend Big Festival

Circleville's favorite son, Ted Lewis, won't be able to attend the 59th Pumpkin Show.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon, personal friend of the veteran showman, made the announcement today. The maestro had "looked forward to being here," but sudden circumstances prompted a change of plans.

Ted is pinch-hitting at the Latin Quarter in New York City for his long time friend Miss Sophie Tucker. Sophie, who had been booked for a 15-day stay at the popular supper club, became ill Sunday evening during a 50th wedding anniversary celebration for Ted and his charming wife, Adah.

Mayor Gordon, who attended the silver anniversary dinner and party, said Ted and Adah were "full of regret that they would be unable to attend this year's show."

SOPHIE was ordered to "take a vacation and rest in Florida," according to Mayor Gordon. Ted will be making daily appearances at the Latin Quarter in Miss Tucker's place until the end of the month.

Gordon said the anniversary celebration "was quite an observance." Dozens of renowned showmen were there and many of them performed.

Special lyrics were written to several of Ted and Adah's favorite songs especially for the anniversary. The words to the tunes were written by Mrs. Robert Mann, personal friend of the Lewises.

One of the songs that was sung for the couple was Ted's theme "Me and My Shadow." The lyrics gave a very personal touch, including his courtship of Adah more than 50 years ago and his boyhood home in Circleville.

First Day Pie Winners Are Named

Mrs. J. L. Hoffman, 538 E. Franklin St., and Dawn Morrison, Route 1, Williamsport, won the first day honors in Pumpkin Pie Baking competition.

Mrs. Hoffman won the senior division. Elaine Goldschmidt, 901 Atwater, placing second and Mrs. Bernadette Bass, 527 S. Scioto St., third.

The teen-age test was won by Miss Morrison. Second place honors went to Terry Knece, Route 1, Stoutsville and third place to Cheryl Lovett, Stoutsville.

Mrs. Robert Shadley is director of the contest and Mrs. John Himrod her assistant.

Today's judges were Mary Brauner and Jean Walker of the Columbus and Southern Electric Co., and Debbie Hansen and Nancy Montgomery of the Columbia Gas Co.

Draftee Faces Hearing Friday

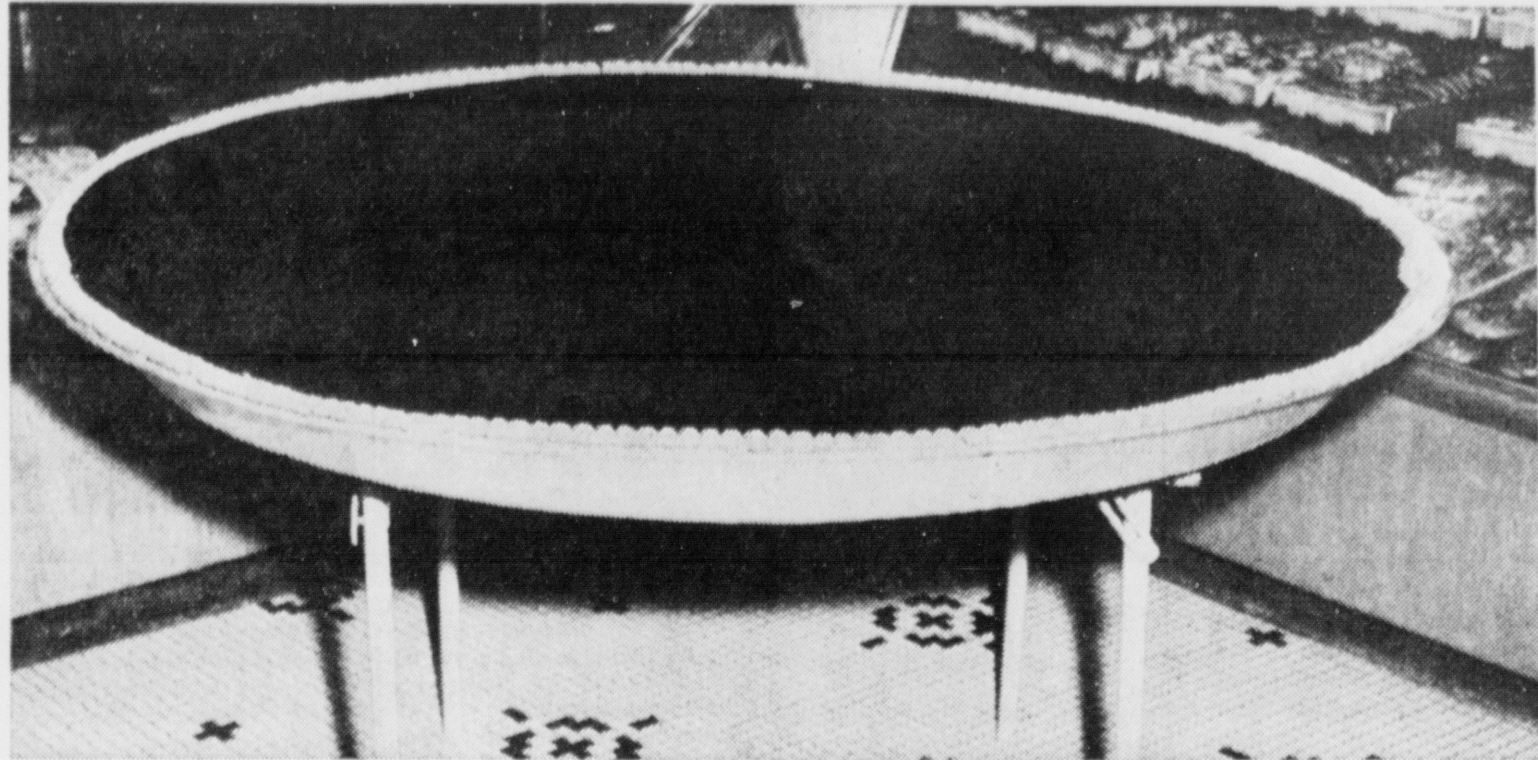

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — David J. Miller, 22, faces a hearing Friday on whether he will be returned to New York City to answer to an indictment charging him with burning his draft card.

Miller, from Syracuse, N.Y., was freed in $500 bail Tuesday from Hillsboro County jail.

On his release, Miller was asked by a reporter whether he had burned his draft card and not some other card and he replied: "It was my draft card—and I burned it."

The maximum penalty for such an offense is five years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

Duke Back in Clinic
NEW YORK (AP)—The Duke of Windsor was back in the hospital today for "eye studies." The 71-year-old former king of England has had three operations for a detached retina of his left eye.

WORLD'S LARGEST PUMPKIN PIE — Lindsey Bake Shop, W. Main St., has again baked the world's largest pumpkin pie for the "greatest free show on earth." The masterpiece is on display in the window of the bakery. Gene Lindsey disclosed his recipe today for women who would like to bake something similar for the family. You need 32½ pounds of pie dough; 12 gallons of pumpkin; 36 pounds of sugar; about 11 dozen eggs; four pounds of corn starch; 1 pound of salt; 1 pound of spices (depending upon an individual's taste); and 116 pounds of milk and water. Bake for 6 hours and let cool for another 5-6 hours and serve. What's more, Lindsey said, the ingredients only cost $34.44. It will serve an entire family (including uncles, aunts, cousins, etc.)

Vatican Curia Change Hinted

New, Younger Men May Receive Posts

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI is reported ready to issue new regulations designed to bring new and younger men into the top levels of the Roman Curia.

The Curia, the central administrative body of the Roman Catholic Church, is dominated by conservative officials, most of them Italian. Progressives at the Vatican Ecumenical Council have been urging major reforms to internationalize the organization and end the entrenchment of the old men at the top.

Vatican sources said the Pope would issue a two-part document which would:

—Make 70 the mandatory retirement age for all high positions in the Curia, including cardinals and papal nuncios of archbishop's rank.

—Provide for automatic suspension from their jobs of all cardinals who head Curia departments upon the death of a Pope. The new Pope could then replace or retain each man.

It was not known if the retirement rule would apply to those now in control of the 12 congregations, three tribunals and six special offices that make up the Curia. Of 28 cardinals in ranking Curia posts, 22 are over 70.

They include the militant leader of the conservative faction in the Ecumenical Council, Alfredo Ottaviani, head of the Holy Office, who will be 75 next week; Amleto Cicognani, the 82-year-old secretary of state, and Eugene Tisserant, 81, the prefect of the Ceremonial Congregation and the dean of the College of Cardinals.

School Bus Pilot Claimed Reckless

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nine junior high school pupils suffered minor injuries today as their school bus skidded on a rain-slick street and snapped off a utility pole in the Fairmount area.

Driver Robert Lytle, 33, was cited for reckless operation. The morning-long rain made all city streets slick and caused massive traffic tie-ups with a rash of accidents.

Traffic on Colerain Avenue was jammed for miles during the rush hour period and automobiles moved only a few feet at a time on the long Harrison Avenue hill leading to Cheviot and Westwood.

Senate Panel Backs Rent Subsidy Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved $12.4 million for the administration's proposed rent subsidy program. Its future is far from secure, however.

The House already has rejected the fund request, and a Senate floor fight appeared in the offing later this week.

Under the rent supplement program, the government would pay non-profit owners or developers the difference between 25 per cent of the occupant's income and the rent for the unit.

Building Code Ordinance Defeated by City Council

An extended effort to establish a building code for Circleville was defeated last night by City Council.

The solons finally brought the proposal to a vote in conjunction with last night's third reading of the measure. An ordinance to provide initial legislation was held to the reading stage at two previous Council sessions.

With only a minimum of discussion involved, the solons defeated the measure on five negative votes. Lawmaker Keith Wagner moved for passage and Joe Bell seconded. But the enactment effort suffered a quick death when Councilmen Frank Barnhart, David Crawford, John Jenkins, Boyd Horn and Robert Turner voiced "no" votes.

Council's decision writes an end, at least temporarily, to a prolonged effort by the Pickaway County Contractors Assn.

LBJ Signs Bill on Air Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law his hospital bedroom today a bill to fight air pollution and require exhaust controls on all cars beginning with 1968 models.

A delegation of about a dozen congressmen, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and secretary of welfare John Gardner looked on as the President signed the measure.

Johnson read a brief statement saying that since the industrial revolution "we have been systematically polluting our air," with automobiles alone now discharging enough carbon monoxide every day to pollute the combined areas of Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey. He said this poses a health problem "that is national in scope."

The legislation also creates a federal program of research and technical aid to seek ways to disposing of the millions of tons of solid waste that the nation generates each year.

The President is recovering from an operation Oct. 8 for removal of his gall bladder and a kidney stone. He may find out from the doctors today how soon he can leave the hospital.

Hitchhiker Survives Hail of Red Bullets

GOETTINGEN, Germany (AP)—An East German refugee fled unharmed through barbed wire and a hail of 25 Communist bullets into West Germany Tuesday, officials reported.

The escapee, a 28-year-old miner, hopped onto the bumper of an automobile that had stopped near the border and the driver sped the miner to cover.

Glenn's Tour Ending

LISBON (AP) — American astronaut John Glenn is making the last stop of his European good-will tour in Lisbon. He and his wife are to fly to New York tonight.

Large Crowd On Hand for Lid Lifter

Circleville's 59th Pumpkin Show was off to a fast start today.

Downtown streets started to fill well before the official 2 p. m. opening. The spectator throng was expected to reach peak stage by tonight's delightful Miss Pumpkin Show parade.

Weather, that all-important factor, appeared to be holding its own. Some cloudiness and forecasts of possible rain tonight and tomorrow failed to dampen the show atmosphere.

Despite the weather reports, old man sun made a welcome appearance during the morning hours. With a little luck, more of the same might be in store for afternoon and evening.

REGARDLESS of the elements, a gay and spectacular Pumpkin Show is on the docket. Fun and frolic will be the theme from now until Saturday night.

A dandy program has been lined up by show officials, with plenty of entertainment for those of all ages. The welcome mat is out, and without doubt thousands will take advantage of it.

The only sad note is that Circleville's own Ted Lewis will not be able to participate. Word received here yesterday explained that the famed showman has accepted an emergency booking at the Latin Quarter in New York in place of his good friend, Sophie Tucker, who suddenly became ill.

Ted was scheduled to take part in the official opening, along with Mayor Ben Gordon.

Although Ted couldn't make it, the opening proceeded on schedule. Miss Susan Bennett officially launched things with delightful selections from the Foresman Chimes. Mayor Gordon extended a greeting and Msgr. Joseph McGlynn offered Invocation. Music was provided by the Amanda-Clearcreek Band.

The tempo picked up considerably at 3 p. m. with the colorful Little Miss Pumpkin Show parade. Judging was scheduled to follow at the W. Main St. platform.

THE CROWD was expected to grow even larger with tonight's popular Miss Pumpkin Show parade and contest. The parade will move out at 8 and judging will follow at the W. Main platform.

The new Little Miss will replace Ellen Sue Chaiten, last year's winner. Her attendants were Mollie Hamrick and Vickie Dawson.

Seeking the Miss Pumpkin Show crown worn last year by Shauna Humphrey will be 14 lovely girls from the seven high schools.

FRIENDLY OPPONENTS — Circleville High School's two candidates for the Miss Pumpkin Show crown and title this morning were taking in the Pumpkin Show before the official opening. Joyce Valentine, the junior candidate, offers Leann Gross, senior candidate, a bite of her pumpkin pie as a friendly gesture prior to tonight's competition. Joyce and Leann, along with 12 other lovely high school girls, will appear before the judges following the 8 p. m. parade.

Ted was scheduled to take part in the official opening, along with Mayor Ben Gordon.

Although Ted couldn't make it, the opening proceeded on schedule. Miss Susan Bennett officially launched things with delightful selections from the Foresman Chimes, Mayor Gordon extended a greeting and Msgr. Joseph McGlynn offered Invocation. Music was provided by the Amanda-Clearcreek Band.

The tempo picked up considerably at 3 p. m. with the colorful Little Miss Pumpkin Show parade. Judging was scheduled to follow at the W. Main St. platform.

THE CROWD was expected to grow even larger with tonight's popular Miss Pumpkin Show parade and contest. The parade will move out at 8 and judging will follow at the W. Main platform.

The new Little Miss will replace Ellen Sue Chaiten, last year's winner. Her attendants were Mollie Hamrick and Vickie Dawson.

Seeking the Miss Pumpkin Show crown worn last year by Shauna Humphrey will be 14 lovely girls from the seven high schools.

FRIENDLY OPPONENTS — Circleville High School's two candidates for the Miss Pumpkin Show crown and title this morning were taking in the Pumpkin Show before the official opening. Joyce Valentine, the junior candidate, offers Leann Gross, senior candidate, a bite of her pumpkin pie as a friendly gesture prior to tonight's competition. Joyce and Leann, along with 12 other lovely high school girls, will appear before the judges following the 8 p. m. parade.

Amazing Auto Sales

Preliminary auto sales figures for October seem to confirm the contention of those who say the industry's prosperity has become permanent. The month is now expected to top all sales figures for any 31 days.

It seems that when the American public started buying more cars three years ago, it was not merely indulging a whim. The pattern has become more or less normalized.

Formerly, factories and dealers batted down the hatches after a good sales year — or two at the most — because they knew a slow-up was ahead.

But there is no evidence of a recession in the 1966 model year, and every indication that a waiting list of buyers will be in effect throughout much of the next 12 months.

Cleaning Lady Is Absolute Boss

By ROBERT MILLER
(For Hal Boyle)

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The unmarried American male too often is portrayed by his married friends as the playboy — the guy who has everything.

It is time the record was set straight.

What he really is, you married guys, is what you would be if you were not so lucky as to have found the Little Woman. You should know this unless you've forgotten about the Dirty Apartment Society.

The DAS still is going strong, offering housekeeping employment opportunities which have gone virtually untapped in this country's bid to drive out poverty.

Employment agencies say it is hard enough to meet demands of reliable domestic help for normal, established households — let alone the errand bachelors.

Yet some of us are lucky. Another newsman and I who share half of a suburban duplex have a faithful cleaning lady who shows up with clock-like precision every other Tuesday for "Operation Passageway."

She's the boss, and knows it. One thing we learned quickly is that when she arrives, it is time to abandon ship. This is an unspoken ultimatum delivered with one piercing glance through her dark-rimmed glasses.

She has a habit of leaving notes to tell what she needs. Not just one note in a specified place, but two, and sometimes more, stuck in obvious, eye-level spots around the house.

"Get some rags," demanded one on the bar. A bathroom mirror note called in big block letters for "a new dust mop." Still another on a kitchen table listed various cleaners and detergents. She's specific about brand names, and openly resents any substitute.

Yet there is a maternal instinct about her. You can tell by the way she always leaves the beds turned down, neatly hangs the scattered clothing, and stacks magazines on a bedside table.

We have no doubt that her bimonthly venture into this jungle of overrun ash trays, beer bottles, and dusty corners is something of a sacrifice.

The unmarried male definitely is one of those animals who despises to see anything thrown away. So after a while, anything he owns is owned in abundance.

The bachelor's life isn't all bad, however, and there is that freedom you married guys all cry about. But for the love of Pete, the next time you reach for those pipes and slippers, don't kid yourselves about your old fraternity brothers.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Guidelines have become a key ingredient in today's mix of government, business and labor activities. And the guidelines may be in for revision. They certainly have brought conflict into the open on several fronts in recent days.

Both government and business appear of late to be reconsidering their stands — or at least their methods of living with the guidelines. Labor sometimes has ignored, at other deplored, application of the guideline to its wage policies.

Government guidelines, now some three years old, are mainly in these fields:

1. Pricing of industry's products, with government interest spurred by increased fear of late of future inflation.
2. Wages, with the federal administration striving to discourage big pay scale boosts that could set off another wage-price spiral.

3. Interest rates, with Washington anxious to hold them down to encourage further business expansion and consumer buying, and the banks openly chafing now because soaring demands for loans are running up against rising costs of luring more savings into their vaults with which to meet the loan demands.
4. Corporate investment overseas, with the government urging business to bring back as many dollars as possible and to cut back spending of new dollars abroad.
5. Bank loans to foreign governments or individuals, with government proposing a definite limit to this outflow of U.S. dollars.

The conflict in each interest is both practical and theoretical.

In the realm of theory, businessmen, bankers and labor leaders tend to join in opposition to the government interfering in the conduct of their affairs. Most say they prefer to stick to open market activity involving supply and demand and collective bargaining. The government's theoretical stand is that the public interest must be protected and that only the government can do that.

In the realm of practice, business tends to challenge both the arithmetic of the guidelines and the chances of obtaining through them the goals of the government says it seeks. For example, several industries contend that the pressure to hold down prices is crimping profits to the point that investment for future expansion will be limited or unattainable.

Guidelines for prices and wages are tied to government estimates of the year-to-year increase in the output of goods per man hour of labor. Business ideas of the size of this increased productivity are usually quite different from those advanced by the government. And labor's ideas differ sharply from both.

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor,

During this period of the Pumpkin Show, we can all see that routing traffic through the city is a tremendous problem. This has been compounded by construction projects both on East Main and Lancaster Pike.

It would seem however, from following the present detour route, that officials responsible for this routing are dedicated to stopping the flow of all the traffic from progressing through the city.

The present routing is set up so if you were traveling east on Route 56 you would turn south on Western Ave., east on Mound St., north on Washington, east on Main St., south on Mingo and east again on Mound St. This puts all eastbound traffic in the congestion of people trying to find a place to park.

Why can't the traffic flow onto Mound St. from its beginning at the Route 23 overpass and continue on it straight through town?

Even the Route 22 traffic would have a better chance making a left turn at Mingo than to make the series of turns now involved.

Surely the inconvenience to residents on E. Mound St. could be endured for four days as easily as the whole city being hopelessly jammed up for the same period.

As evidence to the problem, one would only have tried to follow this route during Sunday's heavy flow of traffic heading for the hills of Hocking County for their last summer outing.

Would the officials of this city please use some common sense and help ease this traffic problem?

WORSHIPPERS of Joe Di Maggio, Mickey Mantle, Stan Musial, and Sandy Koufax will have to admit that the most glittering baseball star of them all—in a class by himself—was George Herman Ruth—"The Babe."

The Babe could generate more excitement by merely striking out than another player could by making a grand slam home run.

First Baseman Lou Gehrig—a baseball immortal himself—followed Babe Ruth in the lineup for years, and was frank enough to admit, "So long as I was the next hitter after the Babe, I could have stood on my head at the plate and nobody would have known the difference. When the Babe walked back to the bench on those matchstick legs of his—whether he had slammed out a homer or fanned—the fans were so busy buzzing about what the Babe had done that they paid absolutely no attention to the next batter."

A pert small-fry was explaining to her classmate the presence of an ice bag atop her father's cranium: "Mama says it's a special hat that all his class at Princeton wears to show they've been at their fifteenth reunion."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Is it possible to cure varicose veins by injection? There are some small varicose veins that are treated by injection, mostly for the purpose of improving the appearance of the legs. This can be safely performed, and in almost all instances the results are most gratifying.

Large varicose veins, however, are almost never treated by injection. Even surgery is not always employed for all cases of varicose veins.

When varicose veins produce symptoms of distress on walking or standing, and when they cause chronic fatigue and general incapacitation some form of treatment must be selected.

Surgery is the treatment of the blood through the legs and feet is interfered with, when swelling occurs, or when hemorrhage or ulceration develops.

Surgery is now performed with extreme safety and with many new techniques that bring remarkable results, few recurrences, and a rapid return to health and activity.

Are there certain doctors who specialize in the treatment of cancer? It is a general misconception that some doctors and some surgeons specialize in cancer only.

Cancer surgery is performed by surgeons in all specialties. For example, operations for cancer of the stomach or intestines are performed by general surgeons, who also perform appendectomies and remove gall bladders.

Cancer of the kidneys is operated on by urological surgeons, who also remove the prostate.

Similarly, cancer of the larynx is removed by surgeons who practice the specialty of ear, nose and throat.

There are therefore no "cancer specialists." Sometimes there are sub-specialties that identify a surgeon who has a particular interest in one or more types of operations.

The family physician has at his disposal directories that identify the training and particular fields of concentration of physicians and surgeons all over the country.

OPPOSES DE GAULLE — Mrs. Fund Borgraeve (above) says she will be a candidate in France's forthcoming presidential election, in which President Charles de Gaulle is a candidate. She is wife of an engineer in Pont Aven, Brittany, has four children.

The Bright Side

Said the Foreign Minister of Ruritania, "I've been playing a sourpuss role for you for a long time. So let's look on the possibility of a bright side for once. I won't swear that this is more than a momentary aberration with me, but I am prepared to argue — just for a day — that your country and the West in general have turned the corner, geopolitically speaking.

"Oh, I know things are still terrible in a lot of places, particularly in the Dominican Republic. I don't like the fact that some good anti-Communists have been booted out of the Dominican Sugar Corporation, or that control of Santo Domingo University has been grabbed by a coalition of anti-U.S. and pro-Communist students and professors who have gotten rid of a good man, Rector Jose Ramon Lopez Fenha. Your Bill Fulbright is absolutely innocent about the number of rifles and machine-guns that have been stashed away by Red rebels both in the countryside and in the city of Santo Domingo itself. But your friend Paul Bethel of the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba has some good news that could help our side in the Dominican Republic.

and conniving in Dominica, it gives our side room for maneuver. Divide and rule, my boy, divide and rule. I know I may sound Pollyanna-ish in bringing up such an old chestnut, but you can't be gloomy every day.

"Looking at Cuba, isn't Fidel's willingness to let some of his dissatisfied people emigrate a sign that he can't feed them? It could be that he is hoping to discover the identity of his enemies by dangling the bait of safe conduct to the U. S., much as Mao Tse-tung smoked out his opposition by offering them free speech in the 'Let a hundred flowers bloom' period. In which case we can expect a sudden retraction of the emigration offer, and a subsequent blood purge. But let's not borrow trouble until it gets here. Maybe Fidel really does want to see his dissenters go.

"Anyway, it's things in the Far East that have me really hopeful for the moment. I don't know what precisely has been going on in Indonesia, but it's certain that the place isn't all tooled up for a victorious war against Malaysia. In South Vietnam the monsoon season is coming to an end and the Viet Cong, far from plastering us with a second Dien Bien Phu catastrophe, is evidently worse off than it was last spring. Even your Walter Lippmann isn't so sure now that we can't make our power felt on the mainland of Asia. Mao Tse-tung has huffed and puffed about Vietnam, and he has also marched up the hill and back down again in the Indin-Pakistani business. But it's all been words, words, words. Looks as though we've pinned the paper tiger tail on him.

"Then there's East Africa. The Red Chinese were going to do some valiant subverting there, if you remember. Now I'm told that in Kenya and Tanganyika the ex-Mau Maus and the old Communist sympathizers have decided that the way to balance the local budgets is to take the white man's money for bigger and better safaris. So they are being nice to the West. When your economy is dependent on making things comfortable for affluent lion hunters you can't afford to be too revolutionary.

"This makes us dependent on the lions, but so what? There's nothing like a good lion for an ally. Particularly when he's willing to be shot for your benefit."

Dear Editor,

During this period of the Pumpkin Show, we can all see that routing traffic through the city is a tremendous problem. This has been compounded by construction projects both on East Main and Lancaster Pike.

It would seem however, from following the present detour route, that officials responsible for this routing are dedicated to stopping the flow of all the traffic from progressing through the city.

The present routing is set up so if you were traveling east on Route 56 you would turn south on Western Ave., east on Mound St., north on Washington, east on Main St., south on Mingo and east again on Mound St. This puts all eastbound traffic in the congestion of people trying to find a place to park.

Why can't the traffic flow onto Mound St. from its beginning at the Route 23 overpass and continue on it straight through town?

Even the Route 22 traffic would have a better chance making a left turn at Mingo than to make the series of turns now involved.

Surely the inconvenience to residents on E. Mound St. could be endured for four days as easily as the whole city being hopelessly jammed up for the same period.

As evidence to the problem, one would only have tried to follow this route during Sunday's heavy flow of traffic heading for the hills of Hocking County for their last summer outing. Would the officials of this city please use some common sense and help ease this traffic problem?

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Is it possible to cure varicose veins by injection?

There are some small varicose veins that are treated by injection, mostly for the purpose of improving the appearance of the legs. This can be safely performed, and in almost all instances the results are most gratifying.

Large varicose veins, however, are almost never treated by injection. Even surgery is not always employed for all cases of varicose veins.

When varicose veins produce symptoms of distress on walking or standing, and when they cause chronic fatigue and general incapacitation some form of treatment must be selected.

Surgery is the treatment of choice when the circulation of the blood through the legs and feet is interfered with, when swelling occurs, or when hemorrhage or ulceration develops.

Surgery is now performed with extreme safety and with many new techniques that bring remarkable results, few recurrences, and a rapid return to health and activity.

Are there certain doctors who specialize in the treatment of cancer?

It is a general misconception that some doctors and some surgeons specialize in cancer only.

Cancer surgery is performed by surgeons in all specialties. For example, operations for cancer of the stomach or intestines are performed by general surgeons, who also perform appendectomies and remove gall bladders.

Cancer of the kidneys is operated on by urological surgeons, who also remove the prostate.

Similarly, cancer of the larynx is removed by surgeons who practice the specialty of ear, nose and throat.

There are therefore no "cancer specialists." Sometimes there are sub-specialties that identify a surgeon who has a particular interest in one or more types of operations.

The family physician has at his disposal directories that identify the training and particular fields of concentration of physicians and surgeons all over the country.

Why is it sometimes necessary to deliver a child by caesarean operation?

The decision for a caesarean operation, or "caesarean section," is a highly technical one and is made only by the combined judgments of a number of physicians. Even highly trained specialists in obstetrics conform to the rigid regulations of their hospitals and get a consulting opinion before the operation is performed.

About six per cent of all births are performed in this way. The usual reason is that the mother's pelvis is too small for the size of the baby's head. Sometimes long, exhausting labor may threaten the life of the unborn child and makes rapid delivery necessary, through caesarean section. In rare instances, the placenta or "afterbirth," may interfere with normal delivery.

The excellence of modern anesthesia, antibiotics and surgical skill make the caesarean operation a very safe one.

Children are not born with fears. They are highly sensitive to the fears of their elders.

OPPOSES DE GAULLE — Mrs. Fund Borgraeve (above) says she will be a candidate in France's forthcoming presidential election, in which President Charles de Gaulle is a candidate. She is wife of an engineer in Pont Aven, Brittany, has four children.

The Bright Side

Said the Foreign Minister of Ruritania, "I've been playing a sourpuss role for you for a long time. So let's look on the possibility of a bright side for once. I won't swear that this is more than a momentary aberration with me, but I am prepared to argue — just for a day — that your country and the West in general have turned the corner, geopolitically speaking."

"Oh, I know things are still terrible in a lot of places, particularly in the Dominican Republic. I don't like the fact that some good anti-Communists have been booted out of the Dominican Sugar Corporation, or that control of Santo Domingo University has been grabbed by a coalition of anti-U.S. and pro-Communist students and professors who have gotten rid of a good man, Rector Jose Ramon Lopez Fenha. Your Bill Fulbright is absolutely innocent about the number of rifles and machine-guns that have been stashed away by Red rebels both in the countryside and in the city of Santo Domingo itself. But your friend Paul Bethel of the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba has some good news that could help our side in the Dominican Republic."

"This good news is that Fidel Castro is quarreling with Moscow over who is to control the revolutionary movement in Dominica. Fidel has reconstituted his Politburo in Havana without a single Moscow-line Communist on it. Gone are the old hardshell supporters of the Soviet Union, Blas Roca and Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, who tried to manipulate Cuban policy vis-a-vis hot spots like the Dominican Republic and Guatemala. Castro wants to run things in Santo Domingo through his man Fidelio Despradel, one of the founders of the June 14 Movement. Moscow has its own man in Dominica, Hugo Tolentino Dipp."

"The Russians went one up on Fidel Castro when their man in Dominica managed to get Despradel demoted to the position of a mere commander of a rebel outpost. Well, if Fidel is embroiled with Moscow over the control of Communist tinkering and conniving in Dominica, it gives our side room for maneuver. Divide and rule, my boy, divide and rule. I know I may sound Pollyanna-ish in bringing up such an old chestnut, but you can't be gloomy every day."

"Looking at Cuba, isn't Fidel's willingness to let some of his dissatisfied people emigrate a sign that he can't feed them?"

It could be that he is hoping to discover the identity of his enemies by dangling the bait of safe conduct to the U. S., much as Mao Tse-tung smoked out his opposition by offering them free speech in the 'Let a hundred flowers bloom' period. In which case we can expect a sudden retraction of the emigration offer, and a subsequent blood purge. But let's not borrow trouble until it gets here. Maybe Fidel really does want to see his dissenters go."

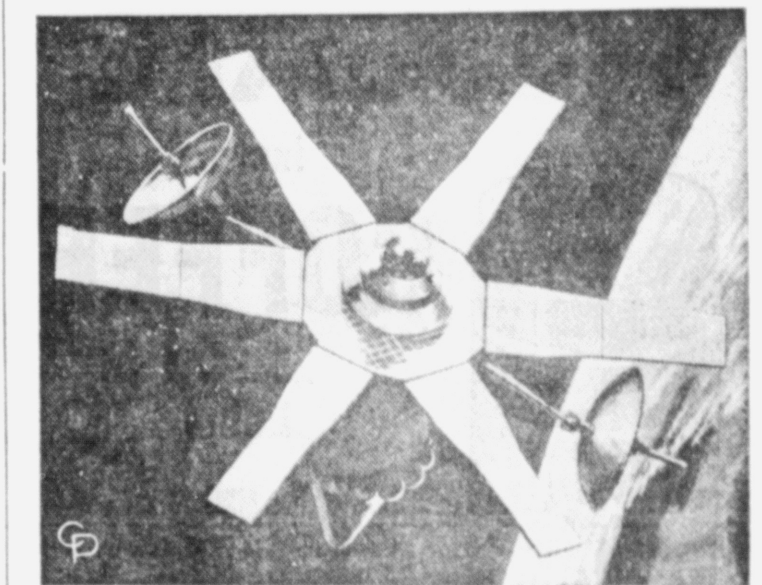

"Anyway, it's things in the Far East that have me really hopeful for the moment. I don't know what precisely has been going on in Indonesia, but it's certain that the place isn't all tooled up for a victorious war against Malaysia. In South Vietnam the monsoon season is coming to an end and the Viet Cong, far from plastering us with a second Dien Bien Phu catastrophe, is evidently worse off than it was last spring. Even your Walter Lippmann isn't so sure now that we can't make our power felt on the mainland of Asia. Mao Tse-tung has huffed and puffed about Vietnam, and he has also marched up the hill and back down again in the Indin-Pakistani business. But it's all been words, words, words. Looks as though we've pinned the paper tiger tail on him."

"Then there's East Africa. The Red Chinese were going to do some valiant subverting there, if you remember. Now I'm told that in Kenya and Tanganyika the ex-Mau Maus and the old Communist sympathizers have decided that the way to balance the local budgets is to take the white man's money for bigger and better safaris. So they are being nice to the West. When your economy is dependent on making things comfortable for affluent lion hunters you can't afford to be too revolutionary."

"This makes us dependent on the lions, but so what? There's nothing like a good lion for an ally. Particularly when he's willing to be shot for your benefit."

Challenge of Change

Big Impact of Science Brings Mixed-Up Era

EDITOR'S NOTE: Can man cope with the dizzying changes wrought by the technological revolution of the past two decades? Scientific knowledge is estimated to be doubling every 10 years. What is the impact of upheaval on society? Alton Blakeslee, Associated Press Science Writer, examines "The Challenge of Change" in the first of a 10-part series on the scientific age—its problems, its promises, its future.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

In a few words, a famous psychiatrist summed up what many or even most people are feeling nowadays:

"We seem to be living in a crazy, mixed-up world," said Dr. William Menninger of Topeka, Kan.

"Things are changing so fast—it's no wonder we all feel confused or anxious or get browned off at times. Where are we going, what is happening to us?" Dr. Menninger was commenting on a basic human tribulation of our day—the fact that we are living through a great and dynamic revolution.

It is a revolution born out of accelerating advances in science engineering and technology, zooming in an upward curve in the last 20 years especially.

It has created fantastic booms and powers and knowledge. And it still is only in its kindergarten stage.

It also has brought topsy-turvy rapid change, new problems, fears and ethical dilemmas, frustrating questions and some shocking contradictions.

Yet it is also creating the greatest opportunity in history for human beings to realize their fullest potentials.

Are we happier for it? Just what has this revolution done to us and for us, even against us? What lies ahead?

In interviews and into their writings, the views of dozens of specialists in many fields were sought for this series of articles.

"Well, I doubt that people are any happier now than 20 years ago," says Dr. John Enders of Harvard, who won a Nobel Prize for virus research that made a polio vaccine possible.

"We are in a real transition period," he adds. "We have introduced new forces in human evolution."

"Now we have the power to override and change our old environment. Unless we learn how to manipulate that power, and to control our emotions, I think we are in for a bad time.

"If we act with foresight, all things should fall into place and make for more satisfying living. If that kind of influence is allowed to prevail, we have some hope."

Knowledge—and therefore new powers—follow along. In fact, our total amount of scientific and technological knowledge now is estimated to be doubling every 10 years.

This augurs tremendous new human abilities yet to come. Some experts predict the conquest of cancer and heart disease, the transplanting of borrowed human legs, kidneys or hearts to replace missing or ill-organs... "smartness" pills and drugs to jog sputtering memories...the ability to prevent or correct some congenital defects and inherited disease...

But every change affects or upsets the old order or equilibrium, our ways of doing things, usually with unforeseen consequences.

If in humanitarian steps babies are saved from dying unnecessarily, a society later may face the tragedy of more adults going hungry and jobless...automobiles let us travel far and fast but also into the morass of traffic jams...

More Americans now are well-fed and comfortable but one-sixth of U.S. families live in poverty... automation and computers help send national productivity and wealth soaring but slice away former jobs...new and young nations and old countries are also eager to climb aboard the train of modern technology, and to possess stupendous new weapons of war...

Air and water become more and more polluted social and economic blights fester in cities...insecticides and detergents bring unexpected boomerangs...

how, we wonder, can anyone keep up with all he's told he ought to know...?

Such are some dimensions, broad, confusing, unsettling, of the new revolution.

Is man, some people ask, destined to become merely a by-product of a technical society? Or can we bend these new powers to human benefit?

Much as we might nostalgically wish for it, the scientific revolution cannot simply be called off, even to give time to digest the changes so far, says Dr. Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Quitting the search to find and use new knowledge would soon make this country a second-class power, weakening its security and its resources for maintaining and expanding employment and a higher standard of living, he says.

But what of the individual, human problem of living through a turmoil of change?

Our value systems come into question in a time of rapid change," Dr. Menninger remarks. "Do we have the wisdom and emotional maturity to handle our new environment? And what can a person hold on to during change?"

Well, I have long held the opinion that individuals who reach an advanced age and stay alert and interested and curious, have reached this point because they were able to continue to grow even in their later years. To me this means they were able to change as change was demanded and this is the big challenge facing all of us now."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren
Helpful Hint!

DEAR ABBY: Our servicemen are now on what is called the "honor system." They no longer make out allotments for their families. They are issued full pay, and put on their "honor" to see that their families are taken care of. Well, I am sorry to say that some of our servicemen don't have much honor. Mine included.

Abby, it took me seven months before I was able to get money out of my husband to feed my family. I finally found out how to go about it, and I hope you will publish my letter because there are a lot of other wives with the same problem.

Write to the ADJUTANT GENERAL, T.A.G., U.S. ARMY (or what ever branch of service your husband is in), WASHINGTON, D.C. Tell him what your problem is, give him your husband's full name, rank and serial number. Make four copies of that letter. Keep one yourself, send one to your husband and one to your husband's Commanding Officer. THEY'LL remind the serviceman that his family back home must eat. I got results!

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl with a problem—my father. He's really a doll, and I don't have an of the problems my girl friends seem to have with their fathers about make-up, hair styles, curfews and the kind of boys they date. But the one thing that bothers me is my father's staying up and waiting for me to come home from a date. If he'd only sit in the dark somewhere in the house, I wouldn't mind so much. But the minute the car pulls up, the front door pops open, and there's Daddy. Of course this kills my chances for a good night kiss. How can I let my father know I'm not a baby any more?

Success Can Be a Trap, Oscar-Winner Contends

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maximilian Schell's explanation of why he has absented himself from Hollywood for the three and a half years since he won an Oscar: "I didn't want to be caught up in the worship of success."

Most toilers in the Hollywoods would consider that a curious viewpoint, if not downright subversive. Oscar winners are supposed to do their utmost to cash in on the golden gift, wheeling and dealing to build careers and bankrolls.

Not Schell. "After I won the Oscar, I didn't make a film deal for a year," he says. "Yes, there were all kinds of offers and pressures to get me to sign. But success can be a trap, and I was determined not to fall into it."

"Money? It never did concern me. No matter how bad things get, you can always sell your car."

Max Schell has not reached that state. Except in his very early days as an actor, he has lived comfortably. Stoutly maintaining his bachelorhood, he keeps his needs at a minimum. He has an apartment in Munich, which he seldom sees. Most of his time he is traveling or working, or both.

After his Oscar for "Judgment at Nuremberg," Schell appeared in the unsuccessful "The Condemned of Altona," for which he had been previously committed.

"Then I waited," he explained. "The offers were very flattering. But most of them had me playing an earnest young German: after 'The Young Lions' and 'Judgment at Nuremberg,' I had enough of that."

He broke the fast with "Tokapi," choosing a comedy as a change of pace. It was a happy choice. He followed with a drama, "Return From the Ashes." In between he played a highly commended Hamlet and performed a new John Osborne play "A Patriot for Me," in London.

Schell emphasized that his absence did not imply he was anti-Hollywood.

A GRIZZLY EXPERIENCE—James Young, 21, and (right) David McAdam, 20, look somewhat the worse for wear in Livingston, Wyo., after being attacked by a 250-pound grizzly bear in Yellowstone National Park. The bear came right into their tent and routed them out of their sleeping bags. Rangers gave the grizzly a relaxant, and it died.

The World Today

By NEIL GILBRIDE
For JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American labor movement is heading into a period which may well bring the most revolutionary changes in a decade.

First will come the belated move by the AFL-CIO to gently but firmly ease the "nine old men" — retired or ousted union chiefs — off its powerful executive council.

They will be replaced by some of the new breed of labor executives gradually pushing aside the old guard of labor bosses who cut their teeth in the rough-and-tumble organizing battles of the 1930s.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, long reluctant to brush aside venerable associates of half a century, is reportedly determined to go through with it in December at the AFL-CIO's convention in San Francisco.

In replacing one-third of its vice presidents with younger blood, the AFL-CIO hopes to stir dynamic new policies to recoup some of labor's lost ground in the nation's dramatically shifting work force.

Although total union membership edged upward in the past few years, it has dropped from 33 per cent to 29 per cent of the nation's growing labor force over the AFL-CIO's 10-year history.

Rapid shifts in technology and automation are creating an increasingly more difficult organizing problem for labor unions. So is the sharp increase in service jobs, outstripping manufacturing in recent years.

"There will never again be any mass organizing campaigns as in the 1930s," said one labor spokesman.

The problem now is a more patient, persuasive approach to organizing small units of white collar workers operating unautomated office machinery — many of whom cling to a traditional resistance to unions.

The flood of youths into the work force with no memory of depressor days when labor won its place in the sun is another problem for union organizers.

Just how the revamped AFL-CIO executive council will seek to meet these and other labor goals will not become apparent until the council's meeting in Honolulu next February.

An even more dramatic — but by no means certain — labor prospect in the months ahead is the possibility of the giant Teamsters Union rejoining the AFL-CIO.

It all depends on what the Supreme Court does with Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa's appeals of two criminal sentences — eight years for jury tampering and five years for defrauding the union pension fund.

Reliable labor sources say the 1.7-million-member Teamsters would be invited back into the AFL-CIO if Hoffa is forced to step down and go to prison.

The impending changes in the AFL-CIO power structure in December are expected to ease out labor leaders such as David J. McDonald, ousted Steelworkers president, and fiery little James B. Carey, who quit as chief of the International Union of Electrical Workers when the Labor Department declared his reelection fraudulent.

I. W. Abel, new Steelworkers president, is almost certain to replace McDonald on the AFL-CIO executive council, but who will fill the eight other vacated seats is sheer guesswork.

The only word from informed sources is that they will be younger, active union presidents.

The average age of the nine slated for forced retirement is just under 69, although federation spokesmen insist age has nothing to do with it.

Meany — who at 71 doesn't like to talk about age — will run for a new two-year term as president of the 13-million-member federation without opposition.

In addition to McDonald, 62, and Carey, 54, other ex-union presidents slated to be shunted off the executive council to an unofficial advisory role are:

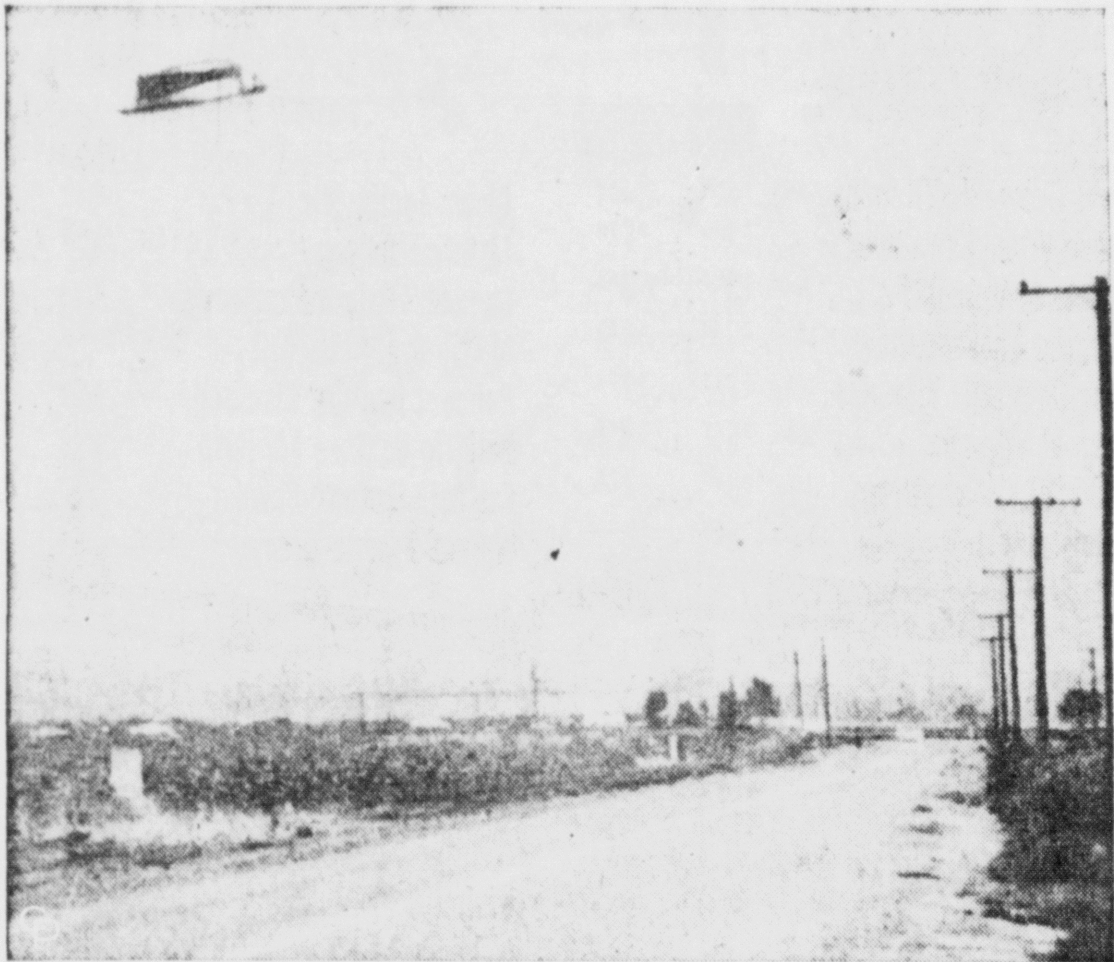

Harry C. Bates, 82, bricklayers; William C. Birthright, 78, barbers; A. J. Hayes, 65, machinists; O. A. Knight, 63, oil workers; William C. McFetridge, 71, building service employees; Lawrence M. Raftery, 70, painters; and Emil Rieve, 73, textile workers.

Monroe Council Meets In Follrod Home

Monroe Township Advisory Council 10 held its October meeting recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Follrod.

The topic, "Should We Expand M re Services Across County Lines?" was presented by Dale Stubbs, discussion leader and it was read and discussed.

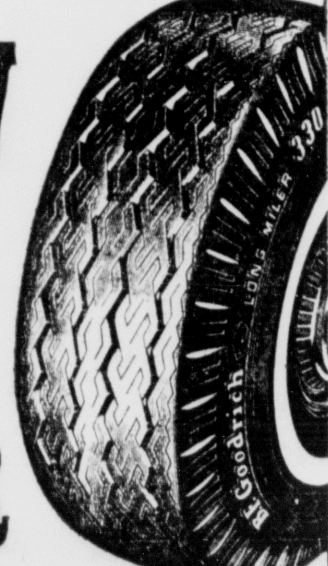

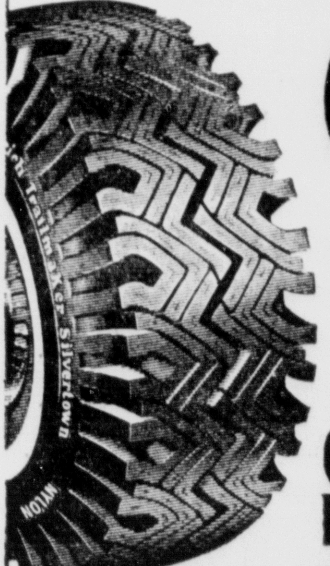

At the close of the meeting seasonal refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Elbee Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss, Miss Laura Long, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tallman and daughter Mary Ann, and Dale Stubbs. The November meeting will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss.

ANOTHER "UFO"—Here is another of those "unidentified flying objects," photographed by Rex Heflin, an Orange County Highway Department employe, near Santa Ana, Calif., with a Polaroid camera. He estimated it at 30 feet in diameter, 8 thick, and said it was visible for about 15 seconds. He made the photo Aug. 3, when there was a small rash of sightings in the West. He said a ray of light rotated underneath. He also said he does not believe in flying saucers. There is a Marine base nearby.

Anti-Glue Sniffing Action Asked

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Hamilton County Juvenile Court is calling for a national conference on glue sniffing—and a campaign to convince manufacturers and sellers of the danger this practice represents for the nation's youth.

"Glue sniffing is killing and crippling our youngsters," Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin S. Schwartz said in a statement in outlining what he termed a program to remedy the situation.

"From this convocation there may be evolved a voluntary program to render the product harmless, or legislation to control the manufacture and distribution of these offending substances," the judge wrote in saying he already has contacted the Childrens Bureau at Washington, D. C., about the national conference.

Police say the practice is spreading among youngsters in Cincinnati.

"When 'high' under the influence of this toxic vapor, youngsters become extremely aggressive, easily sexually aroused, and exhibit little respect for authority or the personal and property rights of others," the report continued.

Anti-Glue Sniffing Action Asked

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Hamilton County Juvenile Court is calling for a national conference on glue sniffing—and a campaign to convince manufacturers and sellers of the danger this practice represents for the nation's youth.

"Glue sniffing is killing and crippling our youngsters," Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin S. Schwartz said in a statement in outlining what he termed a program to remedy the situation.

"From this convocation there may be evolved a voluntary program to render the product harmless, or legislation to control the manufacture and distribution of these offending substances," the judge wrote in saying he already has contacted the Childrens Bureau at Washington, D. C., about the national conference.

Police say the practice is spreading among youngsters in Cincinnati.

"When 'high' under the influence of this toxic vapor, youngsters become extremely aggressive, easily sexually aroused, and exhibit little respect for authority or the personal and property rights of others," the report continued.

Buxom, hard-bargaining women vigorously run two-thirds of the market stalls and shops in Ghana.

Ground Swell of Opposition Seen To Anti-Viet Nam Demonstrations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A ground swell of American reaction is developing against demonstrations protesting U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Issue 3 Affects Small Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More efficient use of "judicial power" without merging courts is proposed in Issue 3 on election ballots next month.

Southern Ohio A-Site Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Reps. William Harsha, a Republican, and Walter Moeller, a Democrat, have invited the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission to accompany them on a personal inspection of a proposed Pike County site in a bid to win the $348 million atom smasher for Southern Ohio.

Harsha, of Portsmouth, and Moeller, of Lancaster, asked Seaborg to inspect the site near Waverly after Harsha openly accused fellow Republican, Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Johnstown, of "a complete lack of understanding for the welfare of the citizens in the Appalachian area of Ohio."

Harsha was referring to a release issued last week by Ashbrook charging that Democratic Rep. Michael Kirwan of Youngstown was trying "to scuttle" Ohio's chances of landing the project by not supporting the Ravensna Arsenal site in North-east Ohio, Harsha insisted, as did Kirwan, that the facility should not be located at Ravensna where they say there is full employment.

The Republican said that Kirwan's support of the Waverly site "clearly shows his compassion for the unemployed and his concern for the welfare of the idle communities in Appalachia."

Tavenna, Waverly and a site near Mareitta are the three Ohio sites among 85 still under consideration by the AEC.

Backache relief pills bring mild diuretic action through the kidneys

Unwise eating or drinking may be a source of mild but annoying bladder irritations—making you feel restless, tense and uncomfortable. Doan's Pills often help to bring prompt relief in two ways: 1) their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation; and 2) a mild diuretic action through the kidneys tending to increase output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

strations reached a crescendo this past weekend. Organizers of the movement vowed more protests, including a march on Washington.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Tuesday he under 40,000 population to permit the same judge to serve in common pleas, probate, juvenile municipal and county courts.

That issue could be placed before voters in an eligible county by unanimous vote of county commissioners or by petitions bearing signatures equal to at least 10 per cent of those voting for governor in the last election.

A favorable majority vote then would be needed for approval in the county.

The plan also provides for election of a judge to serve in multicourt capacity. But such an election would not prevent a judge in one of the courts from serving out the term to which he was elected.

Sen. Fred L. Hofman, R-Hamilton, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and sponsor of the proposal, said it was designed "to provide for more efficient use of judicial power in small counties."

"It also tackles the problem of getting candidates for judicial offices," he added, "by enabling the Legislature to authorize one judge to serve in more than one court and receive a higher salary."

Ashtabula County Eyes Tax Delinquents

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—The public Steel Corp. and several downtown businesses owe Ashtabula County $250,000 in delinquent personal property taxes, County Treasurer Howard A. Fortney said Tuesday. He said some property taxes date back to 1950 and he would collect even if he had to go to court.

Republic Steel has filed with the State Tax Commissioner an application for review of the county's $173,998 tax claim. Fortney said tax records show Republic owes the county for stockpiling imported ore on the docks here from 1960-63.

had been asked to take part in one effort to counteract the demonstrations.

He said the protests "do our country a disservice," but declined to say immediately if he would participate.

College students — from whose ranks most of the peace marchers sprang — are planning programs to show their support for American combat troops. Among them is a blood drive at Washington State University.

The national Jaycees are planning a massive program to counter the anti-Viet Nam demonstrations.

The 2,500-member Huntsville, Ala., Post 2702 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has launched "Operation Sweet Tooth" to show American fighting men that folks back home care.

Plans for a parade down Fifth Avenue in New York City are being mapped by the newly formed Citizens Committee to Support American Viet Nam Efforts.

Eisenhower, visiting a cattle sale in Culpeper, Va., at first declined to discuss the demonstrations.

Then he said: "I will say this: they were very silly and based on ignorance without knowledge of the continuing threat of communism to this country."

"Now, I believe in free speech, but these people do our country a disservice and, as I have said before, I support the President and his policy in Viet Nam."

An organization of about 75 students at Michigan State University, headed by William Webb, a junior from Detroit, has launched a drive to get 15,000 student signatures on a petition supporting President Johnson.

"There are only about 80 students opposing the war in Viet Nam," he said. "We want to show how many support it."

Petitions are also being circulated at West Virginia State College. Student Council President Glen Napp said he hopes to get 1,800 signatures supporting the American fighting men.

"Operation Sweet Tooth" is a drive organized by the Huntsville, Ala., VFW to send packages of homemade cookies and candy to servicemen in Viet Nam.

James Skidmore Jr., national director of the Jaycees, said in Detroit a program is being worked out to counter the peace demonstrations.

He said the program calls for such action as "packing" college meetings opposing the war, publicizing Jaycee-complied background information on leaders of the demonstrations, and sending speakers to college campuses to defend the U.S. position.

The executive council of the United Church of Christ termed "highly immoral" the efforts to "induce young men to 'beat' the draft."

These attempts "undermine the moral fabric of our nation," the council said, and should "not be countenanced under the cloak of free speech."

The Communists are deriving "undue comfort" from the protests, said one recent visitor to Hanoi who spoke with officials there.

"They have become victims of their own propaganda," he said.

Despite the massive U.S. military buildup in South Viet Nam, the Communists apparently feel the U.S. government may back down on its commitment because of opposition in America to the Vietnamese war.

Many in Saigon regard this as one reason why North Viet Nam has refused to be drawn into peace talks and has appeared to stiffen its resistance to negotiations.

Some observers see signs that the North Vietnamese interpret the demonstrations as indications that President Johnson may be losing popular support for his Vietnamese policy, or never had this support.

"It is easy to understand how this can happen," said one source. "The people in North Viet Nam have been cut off from the rest of the world for years. They are told only what the government wants them to know."

Another observer said the North Vietnamese are equating the opposition in the United States with the wave of antiwar feeling that swept France before the French pulled out of Indochina in 1954. He said the North Vietnamese believe that the opposition at home played a major part in France's defeat.

U.S. officials play down the demonstrations, saying they express the views of only a small fraction of Americans. Communist broadcasts play the theme that the protests have the support of the mass of the American people.

Health Commissioner Lists Carbon Monoxide Dangers

Carbon monoxide poisoning will take many lives in Ohio again this year, according to Dr. Frank R. Moore, Pickaway County Health Commissioner.

This gas, he said, is the result of incomplete burning of fuel and is due to inadequate supply of fresh air in the areas of the heating equipment. Gas is the most common producer of carbon monoxide, but all fuels are capable of producing it when deprived of fresh air or oxygen.

"I would like to see Pickaway

County go through this winter without a single death," he said. "If people would do the following, I think we can stop the 'silent killer' before he gets started," Dr. Moore said.

1. Vent all heaters to flues that are open to outside air. 2. Never use rubber hose instead of metal pipe when connecting gas stoves. 3. Keep all equipment, flues and chimneys clean and in good condition. 4. Always provide fresh air in rooms when space heaters are used.

5. Check car mufflers for leaks. Never sit in the car with the motor running and the windows closed. 6. Before starting the motor of the car, open garage doors. Any kind of gasoline motor, such as lawnmowers, should not be operated within an enclosure. 7. Check and adjust heating equipment at the beginning of each heating season. 8. Never use the oven for heating, even in extreme cold weather.

"The biggest hazard with accidents such as carbon monoxide poisoning is the 'It can't happen to me' attitude. It can happen to you," said Health Commissioner Moore.

For further assistance and information contact the Columbia Gas Company, an appliance dealer, plumber or the Pickaway Health Department.

Ex-Convict Is 'Sorry' Kidnap Victim Is Slain

CLEVELAND (AP) — Martin U. Still Jr. sat in his jail cell Tuesday and said:

"I'm sorry, damned sorry. I wish it had been me instead of her. But I guess anything I say sounds rather facetious."

Still, 28, an ex-convict from California, was charged Tuesday with the first-degree murder in the slaying of Mrs. James Kosciwicz, 46, mother of three from suburban Valley View.

His companion, Vincent J. Podojil, 28, an ex-convict from Hollywood, Calif., pleaded innocent to four charges in Garfield Heights Municipal Court. He was held in lieu of $100,000 bond on each charge.

Mrs. Kosciwicz was killed early Sunday when she and Harry E. Scott, 38, of Bath, jumped into the Ohio Canal to escape their abductor. She was shot in the head when she came up for air. Scott was not hit.

Still says he doesn't remember much of what happened. "I've been drinking since I was 16 or 17-year-old and all the trouble I've ever been in came when I was drunk. I remember being in a bar about 10 (p.m.). But I don't remember much after about the third or fourth bar."

"I first learned of what happened when they came to arrest me at the motel in Akron. I was shocked when they told me. It's all fuzzy in my mind."

Authorities will ask the Cuyahoga County Grand Jury to return murder indictments against the two men, said Valley View

Police Chief Charles Dalton.

Podojil is charged with robbery, assault with a dangerous weapon and abduction and is also charged with the $1,000 holdup of a Garfield Heights tavern.

Under Ohio law a participant in a robbery which results in death can be charged with first-degree murder.

Police said Scott and Mrs. Kosciwicz were abducted in a robbery attempt in Independence and taken to the banks of the Ohio Canal where they attempted their escape.

Rolls-Royce Making Limousine for Chiefs

LONDON (AP)—Rolls-Royce has announced a new limousine to be sold only to heads of state.

The roof over the passenger compartment can be lowered and the passenger seat raised to give the populace a better view of the occupant. The price is a secret but educated guesses start around $35,000.

Hiram College Taps Acting President

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Wendell G. Johnson will serve as acting president of Hiram College until a new president is appointed to succeed Dr. James Neal Prim, who resigned in August.

Dr. Johnson, appointed Tuesday, has served as chief administrative officer and academic dean since August.

12 The Circleville Herald, Wed. Oct. 20, 1965 Circleville, Ohio

Medical Mirror BABY'S SIGHT Q. At what age do babies recognize their parents? A. Infants respond to familiar sounds such as the mother's voice quite early. However, the baby's vision remains restricted for a time. The eye of an alert newborn can focus on targets only at a particular distance (about 8 inches). Objects farther away are blurred. The ability to focus steadily improves, however, so that by the end of the fourth month the eye accommodates, or focuses, about as well as the eye of an adult.

REPIGMENTATION OF THE HAIR Q. I was 64 years old when I developed diabetes. Shortly after starting insulin my hair, which was then quite gray, changed to the brown color it was when I was much younger. I'm not complaining but was this due to the insulin? A. Apparently repigmentation of gray hair sometimes occurs in diabetics after good nutrition and diabetic control is established. The reason for it is unknown.

Issue 3 Affects Small Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More efficient use of "judicial power" without merging courts is proposed in Issue 3 on election ballots next month.

Submitted to voters by the legislature in the form of an amendment to the state constitution, the proposal seeks to allow a judge in counties under 40,000 population to serve in more than one court.

On the basis of the last federal census, 43 of Ohio's 88 counties would be eligible to use the plan. Approval by a majority of those voting Nov. 2 is needed for adoption of the amendment. Further action by the next legislature would be required to implement an adopted proposal. The plan would allow counties

Carbon monoxide poisoning will take many lives in Ohio again this year, according to Dr. Frank R. Moore, Pickaway County Health Commissioner. This gas, he said, is the result of incomplete burning of fuel and is due to inadequate supply of fresh air in the areas of the heating equipment. Gas is the most common producer of carbon monoxide, but all fuels are capable of producing it when deprived of fresh air or oxygen. "I would like to see Pickaway

County go through this winter without a single death," he said. "If people would do the following, I think we can stop the 'silent killer' before he gets started," Dr. Moore said. 1. Vent all heaters to flues that are open to outside air. 2. Never use rubber hose instead of metal pipe when connecting gas stoves. 3. Keep all equipment, flues and chimneys clean and in good condition. 4. Always provide fresh air in rooms when space heaters are used. 5. Check car mufflers for leaks. Never sit in the car with the motor running and the windows closed. 6. Before starting the motor of the car, open garage doors. Any kind of gas-line motor, such as lawnmowers, should not be operated within an enclosure. 7. Check and adjust heating equipment at the beginning of each heating season. 8. Never use the oven for heating, even in extreme cold weather. "The biggest hazard with accidents such as carbon monoxide poisoning is the 'It can't happen to me' attitude. It can happen to you," said Health Commissioner Moore. For further assistance and information contact the Columbia Gas Company, an appliance dealer, plumber or the Pickaway Health Department.

Ex-Convict Is 'Sorry' Kidnap Victim Is Slain

CLEVELAND (AP) — Martin U. Still Jr. sat in his jail cell Tuesday and said:

"I'm sorry, damned sorry. I wish it had been me instead of her. But I guess anything I say sounds rather facetious."

Still, 28, an ex-convict from California, was charged Tuesday with the first-degree murder in the slaying of Mrs. James Kosciwicz, 46, mother of three from suburban Valley View.

His companion, Vincent J. Podojil, 28, an ex-convict from Hollywood, Calif., pleaded innocent to four charges in Garfield Heights Municipal Court. He was held in lieu of $100,000 bond on each charge.

Mrs. Kosciwicz was killed early Sunday when she and Harry E. Scott, 38, of Bath, jumped into the Ohio Canal to escape their abductor. She was shot in the head when she came up for air. Scott was not hit.

Still says he doesn't remember much of what happened. "I've been drinking since I was 16 or 17-year-old and all the trouble I've ever been in came when I was drunk. I remember being in a bar about 10 (p.m.). But I don't remember much after about the third or fourth bar."

"I first learned of what happened when they came to arrest me at the motel in Akron. I was shocked when they told me. It's all fuzzy in my mind."

Authorities will ask the Cuyahoga County Grand Jury to return murder indictments against the two men, said Valley View

Police Chief Charles Dalton. Podojil is charged with robbery, assault with a dangerous weapon and abduction and is also charged with the $1,000 holdup of a Garfield Heights tavern.

Under Ohio law a participant in a robbery which results in death can be charged with first-degree murder.

Police said Scott and Mrs. Kosciwicz were abducted in a robbery attempt in Independence and taken to the banks of the Ohio Canal where they attempted their escape.

Rolls-Royce Making Limousine for Chiefs

LONDON (AP)—Rolls-Royce has announced a new limousine to be sold only to heads of state.

The roof over the passenger compartment can be lowered and the passenger seat raised to give the populace a better view of the occupant. The price is a secret but educated guesses start around $35,000.

Hiram College Tops Acting President

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Wendell G. Johnson will serve as acting president of Hiram College until a new president is appointed to succeed Dr. James Neal Prim, who resigned in August.

Dr. Johnson, appointed Tuesday, has served as chief administrative officer and academic dean since August.

BABY'S SIGHT
Q. At what age do babies recognize their parents?
A. Infants respond to familiar sounds (such as the mother's voice) quite early. However, the baby's vision remains restricted for a time. The eye of an alert newborn can focus on targets only at a particular distance (about 8 inches). Objects farther away are blurred. The ability to focus steadily improves, however, so that by the end of the fourth month the eye accommodates, or focuses, about as well as the eye of an adult.
REPIGMENTATION OF THE HAIR
Q. I was 64 years old when I developed diabetes. Shortly after starting insulin my hair, which was then quite gray, changed to the brown color it was when I was much younger. I'm not complaining but was this due to the insulin?
A. Apparently repigmentation of gray hair sometimes occurs in diabetes after good nutrition and diabetic control is established. The reason for it is unknown.

Southern Ohio A-Site Backed

AEC Chief Asked To Visit Waverly

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Reps. William Harsha, a Republican, and Walter Moeller, a Democrat, have invited the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission to accompany them on a personal inspection of a proposed Pike County site in a bid to win the $348 million atom smasher for Southern Ohio.

The invitation issued Tuesday to Glenn Seaborg was the latest move in the dispute over whether the facility should be located in Northern or Southern Ohio. This depends, of course, on whether Ohio is awarded the plum at all.

Harsha, of Portsmouth, and Moeller, of Lancaster, asked Seaborg to inspect the site near Waverly after Harsha openly accused fellow Republican, Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Johnstown, of "a complete lack of understanding for the welfare of the citizens in the Appalachian area of Ohio."

Harsha was referring to a release issued last week by Ashbrook charging that Democratic Rep. Michael Kirwan of Youngstown was trying "to scuttle" Ohio's chances of landing the project by not supporting the Ravenscroft site in Northeast Ohio. Harsha insisted, as did Kirwan, that the facility should not be located at Ravenscroft where they say there is full employment.

The Republican said that Kirwan's support of the Waverly site "clearly shows his compassion for the unemployed and his concern for the welfare of the idle communities in Appalachia."

Tavenna, Waverly and a site near Mareitta are the three Ohio sites among 85 still under consideration by the AEC.

Effect of Salt On Colds Eyed

LONDON (AP) — Four members of the department of pharmacology in Seth Medical College, Bombay, India, have suggested in a letter to the Lancet, British Medical Journal, that "Man to some extent owes his common cold to the consumption of salt."

They reported that two adults and two children with recurrent colds "Have obtained complete and sustained relief for the past six to 14 months by taking a salt free diet."

They claimed that "in chil-

Even War-Torn Viet Nam Has Delinquency Problem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — As in many Western countries, Viet Nam is beset by a surging wave of juvenile delinquency and the problem is what to do about it.

Col. Pham Van Lieu, director general of national police, said in a speech that police arrested 1,413 hoodlums and rowdies last year, and almost that number—1,225—in only the first six months of 1965.

Lieu compared Viet Nam's delinquents with the English dren a common cold can be induced at will by administering a salted diet."

Teddy Boys and the French Blousons Noirs.

Young hoodlums in Saigon are called cowboys. Many have individualistic haircuts, often thick with pomade. They display a sullen air and usually go about in small gangs.

Purse snatching is one of their most frequent minor offenses. They often assault police. Their crimes range from brawling, general disorderliness and theft to stabbing, shooting, murder and rape.

Saigon's crowded streets and bars, with many dark side streets and alleys, offer a wide scope of operation. Police have announced the breakup of a free love club among students. A Saigon paper said the club's activities were designed to promote "wild parties and free association."

Seton Hall Planning $15 Million Expansion

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Seton Hall University has announced a $15-million development program designed to give the school the largest expansion in its 109-year history. The announcement came from Bishop John J. Dougherty, Seton Hall's president.

Lieu named the war as one of the main causes for Viet Nam's growing juvenile problem. He also listed a lack of education, broken homes and inadequate parental supervision, depraved literature, and sexy movies.

He also said the Communists were scheming to exploit unrest in major cities.

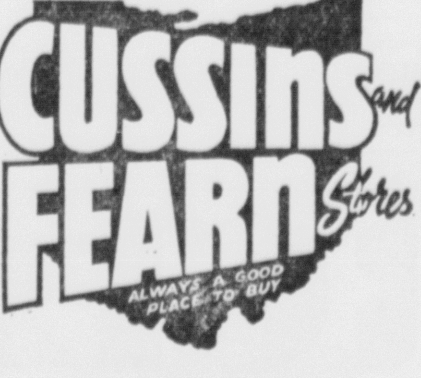

His remedies were those often heard in discussions of juvenile delinquency elsewhere: compulsory primary education, vocational training and more technical schools, a ban on obscene literature and films. He urged church and social organizations to aid in fighting the problem.

Collapsed Bridge Cost Is Set at $150,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—It will cost $150,000 to replace a bridge which collapsed into the Mad River last Wednesday, killing two people, according to Clark County Engineer Roger Borchers.

The bridge would be built several hundred feet downstream from the old one, Borchers said.

Effect of Salt On Colds Eyed

LONDON (AP) — Four members of the department of pharmacology in Seth Medical College, Bombay, India, have suggested in a letter to the Lancet, British Medical Journal, that "Man to some extent owes his common cold to the consumption of salt."

They reported that two adults and two children with recurrent colds "Have obtained complete and sustained relief for the past six to 14 months by taking a salt free diet."

They claimed that "in chil-

Even War-Torn Viet Nam Has Delinquency Problem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — As in many Western countries, Viet Nam is beset by a surging wave of juvenile delinquency and the problem is what to do about it.

Col. Pham Van Lieu, director general of national police, said in a speech that police arrested 1,413 hoodlums and rowdies last year, and almost that number—1,225—in only the first six months of 1965.

Lieu compared Viet Nam's delinquents with the English dren a common cold can be induced at will by administering a salted diet."

Teddy Boys and the French Blousons Noirs.

Young hoodlums in Saigon are called cowboys. Many have individualistic haircuts, often thick with pomade. They display a sullen air and usually go about in small gangs.

Purse snatching is one of their most frequent minor offenses. They often assault police. Their crimes range from brawling, general disorderliness and theft to stabbing, shooting, murder and rape.

Saigon's crowded streets and bars, with many dark side streets and alleys, offer a wide scope of operation. Police have announced the breakup of a free love club among students. A Saigon paper said the club's activities were designed to promote "wild parties and free association."

Seton Hall Planning $15 Million Expansion

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Seton Hall University has announced a $15-million development program designed to give the school the largest expansion in its 109-year history. The announcement came from Bishop John J. Dougherty, Seton Hall's president.

Lieu named the war as one of the main causes for Viet Nam's growing juvenile problem. He also listed a lack of education, broken homes and inadequate parental supervision, depraved literature, and sexy movies.

He also said the Communists were scheming to exploit unrest in major cities.

His remedies were those often heard in discussions of juvenile delinquency elsewhere: compulsory primary education, vocational training and more technical schools, a ban on obscene literature and films. He urged church and social organizations to aid in fighting the problem.

Collapsed Bridge Cost Is Set at $150,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—It will cost $150,000 to replace a bridge which collapsed into the Mad River last Wednesday, killing two people, according to Clark County Engineer Roger Borchers.

The bridge would be built several hundred feet downstream from the old one, Borchers said.

Water Boys Are Key Men in Cavalry Unit

AN KHE, South Viet Nam (AP) — Sgt. Jimmy L. Nipper and Pfc. Taldion R. Devlin are important men in the 1st Cavalry Division's massive encampment near here in the central Vietnamese highlands.

Devlin, 25, and Nipper, 32, help the division exist at its fortress deep in Viet Cong territory.

They man "Water Point," a tiny outpost on a swift stream some distance from the main camp. With simple but effective apparatus they can turn out 900 gallons of pure water an hour.

Without this precious water, the 19,000 men of the 1st Air Cavalry would either die of thirst in the dehydrating heat, or sicken from drinking impure water.

Devlin and Nipper are members of the 8th Engineer Battalion. Among its numerous other jobs, the battalion is fortifying the camp into a strong position. The battalion commander, Lt. Col. Robert Malley, says: "It will be our Rock of Gibraltar in the middle of Viet Nam."

One company of the 8th was with the 1,000-man advance party that arrived Aug. 25 in Viet Nam. It directed the clearing — by hand — of thick jungle on the chosen campsite.

The hand clearing, with brush hook, ax and GI shovel, was done for a specific reason, explained by Col. Malley.

"We couldn't disturb the turf with bulldozers and earth movers too much. We've got 450 helicopters in this outfit and they create enough dust, even with good turf. Also we can't have a morass of mud when it's raining."

Together with the banyan, teak and mahogany trees, the tangled liana vines and lesser brush, the troopers chopped up 18-foot pythons, cobras and poisonous kraist, which the men call "bamboo vipers." One man was bitten but swift medical attention saved his life.

On a recent move of battalion strength, an engineer truck leading the way was blown up by a mine. But the engineers had padded the truck's floor with sandbags so that the driver escaped with no injury at all and the passenger had only superficial cuts.

A particularly difficult task for the battalion was clearing the top of nearby Hon Cong Mountain and the establishment of a heliport and "antenna farm" as the heart of a communications network.

Hon Cong, commanding the entire An Khe Valley, is valuable as an artillery observation position.

Capt. Paul J. Cerjan's Bravo Company had the job of preparing it. Helicopters dropped sandbags until a helicopter could land and let out troops. The company cleared brush by hand until they had a spot on which to land a small bulldozer.

This dozer tumbled big trees and moved granite boulders until a semblance of level ground was established. Then a big bulldozer was lifted in.

Bravo Company interrupted work to beat off an occasional Viet Cong probe.

Soon the company will build a road to the site. It will start from the top and end at the bottom.

"It sounds a little like building a house from the roof down instead of the usual way," said Cerjan, "but it's easier to work down than up and we have the big choppers to take our equipment up three."

Many of the men here are career soldiers formerly stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga. Nipper, Malley and Cerjan all list Columbus, Ga., as their homes. Devlin is from Fort Pierce, Fla.

John Dunlap
Director for Home State

Word has been received here concerning the appointment of John H. Dunlap of the Williamsport community as a director of Home State Farm Publications, Inc.

The announcement was made by James Milholland Jr., president and publisher of the Cleveland based organization. Home State publishes "The Ohio Farmer."

Dunlap, a seventh-generation Ohio farmer and well-known businessman - conservationist, owns and operates 11 farms totaling 4,000 acres and manages 20 others with an additional 8,000 acres in five counties of Central Ohio. The 14 well-stocked lakes and ponds on these farms reflect his interest in flood control, water supply and conservation.

As a businessman, he operates an implement firm, hardware and general supply store at Williamsport and an elevator and feed business at Atlanta. He is also a builder of levees, ditches, ponds and similar conservation projects.

A LIST of the Dunlap's activities is further evidence of his concern for conservation and similar matters. He is chairman of the Recreation and Resources Commission of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources and serves as a director of the Ohio Forestry Assn. and the Scioto Conservancy District.

He is also a director of the Columbus Production Credit Assn., Scioto Downs Race Track and First National Bank of Circleville. He is past president of the Ohio Farm Managers Assn.

A 1928 graduate of Ohio State University, Dunlap serves on the Alumni Advisory Board of the University's College of Agriculture. His memberships include the Farmers Union, Ohio Farm Bureau, Grange, League of Ohio Sportsmen, Modern Woodmen, Methodist Church, Masons, and Elks.

"We feel Mr. Dunlap's depth of experience will be invaluable to a publishing house such as ours," Milholland said. Home State publishes "Michigan Farmer," "Pennsylvania Farmer," "Kansas Farmer" and "Missouri Ruralist" in addition to "The Ohio Farmer."

Here's Panorama Of Week's News

EDITOR'S NOTE — A little girl's painful encounter with a bird in Ohio. A garbage can battle in Phoenix. An unusually seasoned newspaper carrier in Maryland. A triple blessing of twins. These make up glimpses from the U.S. scene this week.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Lots of little girls get broken arms, but Denise Shelton's was broken by a pheasant.

Denise, 8, was riding with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shelton, when a cock pheasant slammed against the side of the automobile.

It smashed Denise's right arm against the car door.

The bird was killed by the impact.

Denise saved a couple of its feathers as a souvenir.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — John R. Manning's garbage cans have been condemned and he's about to blow his lid.

The Phoenix Sanitation Department condemned them on grounds they had ragged edges and because the lids did not fit tightly. Manning is supposed to replace them.

"I'm tired of people playing football with these garbage cans," said Manning, a writer. He charged city garbage men have dented his cans, carried away the lids with the rest of the garbage and that a city truck once ran over a lid leaving it flat as a dime.

The city promised further investigation. But an official said its men are careful with the cans and that when people complain about missing garbage can lids they frequently have been filched by kids and put to use as shields.

BRUNSWICK, Md. (AP) — Not all newspaper carriers are fuzzy-cheeked boys out to earn spending money.

Mary Douglas delivers the weekly Blade-Times just because she likes people. While making her Thursday deliveries, Mrs. Douglas is apt to stop for a brief chat before resuming the hilly climb which area boys shunned.

"My feet hurt me sometimes, all this walking," Mrs. Douglas says, "but I couldn't just sit and not earn something."

Her customers describe Mrs. Douglas as a model carrier who knocks on the door of each house. If no one answers, she puts the paper in a safe place.

That's the kind of patience not always associated with newspaper carriers.

But then, Mrs. Douglas is an 88-year-old great-grandmother.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. John Hilding have twins—and twins and twins.

Addition of Allen and Ellen Hilding gave the Hildings their third set of boy and girl twins and a statistical oddity.

Mrs. Hilding, national executive secretary of the Mothers of Twins Club, said twins occur in about one out of 80 births. A mother with one set of twins has a 1-in-17 chance of having a second set.

Few women have three or more sets, although the national record apparently is seven sets of twins.

The older twins are Susan and Steven 5, and Judy and James, 3. But there are other Hildings too—Bobby, 7, Danny, 6, and Mike, 2.

Adult Class Is Approved At Westfall

The Westfall Board of Education approved a budget for an adult education class in the vocational agriculture department during Tuesday's regular meeting.

In addition, Richard Evans of Worthington, a graduate of Morris Harvey College, Charleston W. Va. has been employed as an extra teacher at Jackson Junior High.

Evans has taken graduate work at the University of West Virginia.

Franklin Bailey was employed as a bus driver in the Darby area.

The board approved the Time tuberculosis skin test for grades 1, 6, 10 in the Westfall School District. The test is to be administered by Mrs. Helen Pickens, county health nurse. In addition to the students, food handlers, teachers and bus drivers may take the test.

For those who have a positive reaction to the test, X-rays will be scheduled Dec. 13.

U.S. Planning To Sell Its Excess Mercury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Services Administration has announced a long-range plan for sale on a competitive field bid of about 24,800 flasks of mercury at not more than 1,500 flasks monthly.

The plan covers all the mercury that remains from the approximately 55,000 flasks declared excess by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Brazil Development Labeled Encouraging

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report from the Inter-American Committee for the Alliance for Progress says Brazil's development and stabilization program is producing encouraging results.

The report said the program has reduced by nearly two-thirds the rate of inflation while increasing the economic growth rate and established a basis for social advance.

State's New Nursing Home Law in Force

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A new state law, which had its beginnings with the tragic fire deaths of 63 helpless, elderly patients in a Northern Ohio nursing home two years ago, went into effect today.

What the bill, enacted by the Ohio Legislature in July, does specifically is provide the means for carrying out a new set of regulations designed to upgrade the state's 1,200 nursing and homes. The regulations went into effect last December after four years of litigation, but their enforcement was difficult because the role of the state and local governments in control over nursing homes was not clearly defined.

The regulations were first proposed in 1959 and approved by the Ohio Public Health Council in 1960.

But the fire at the Golden Age Nursing Home near Fitchville in Huron County on Nov. 23, 1963, shocked the conscience of the state.

Investigation showed that faulty electrical wiring caused the blaze and blamed it on the carelessness of the owners, who, investigators said, had received repeated warnings from blown fuses, switches and lights.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered immediate inspections of all nursing homes. Inspection of the 1,200 homes was accomplished within 60 days with numerous discrepancies found and fixed.

The fire and its subsequent investigations pointed up the weak control the state had over the homes. The new law was drawn up.

The regulations include specific provisions for building inspection—both structurally and for fire hazards. The legislation defines responsibility for such inspections.

Under old rules, it was possible for eight persons to inspect a home prior to licensing, says Samuel G. Fraley, head of the health department's nursing home program. These would include both state and local representatives from building divisions, fire departments and the state fire marshal's office and health departments.

Brought complaints from operators that one inspector told him one thing and later another contradicted it.

Under the new law, the number of possible inspectors is reduced to three, one for fire, one for the building itself and one for health and sanitation.

The provision most objected to by the operators deals with personnel. Under old rules, homes were required to have only one employee for every four patients. Thus, Fraley said, if a home had more than 100 patients the only requirement was that it had 25 employees, but only one nurse might be on duty at any one time.

In the future, however, although the employee-patient ratio still is one to four, sufficient nursing personnel will be required on duty at all times.

The new space requirements become effective Jan. 1, 1966. They call for an increase of from 60 to 80 and 100 square feet per patient for newly-licensed homes and from 60 to 70 and 100 square feet for homes first licensed prior to 1958. The structural requirements adhere strictly to Ohio's building code.

These new space requirements were fought hard by the operators because they will force many homes to decrease the number of patients they now hold.

Many of the homes still do not measure up to the regulations because the standards they set require sizable outlays of cash which in many cases means a large burden on their budgets. These are being given time to comply.

Murder Confession Rejected by Police

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police have released an unemployed chef from Exeter, N.H., who told homicide detectives he murdered his wife in New Hampshire four months ago. Authorities said Tuesday the shooting of Mrs. John Gillespie was an accident and occurred July 7, 1963, not four months ago. Gillespie, 29, walked up to a Cleveland Patrolman Monday and said he wanted to confess to the murder of his wife. New Hampshire authorities, who flew here to talk to Gillespie, said there was no reason to hold him.

Murder Confession Rejected by Police

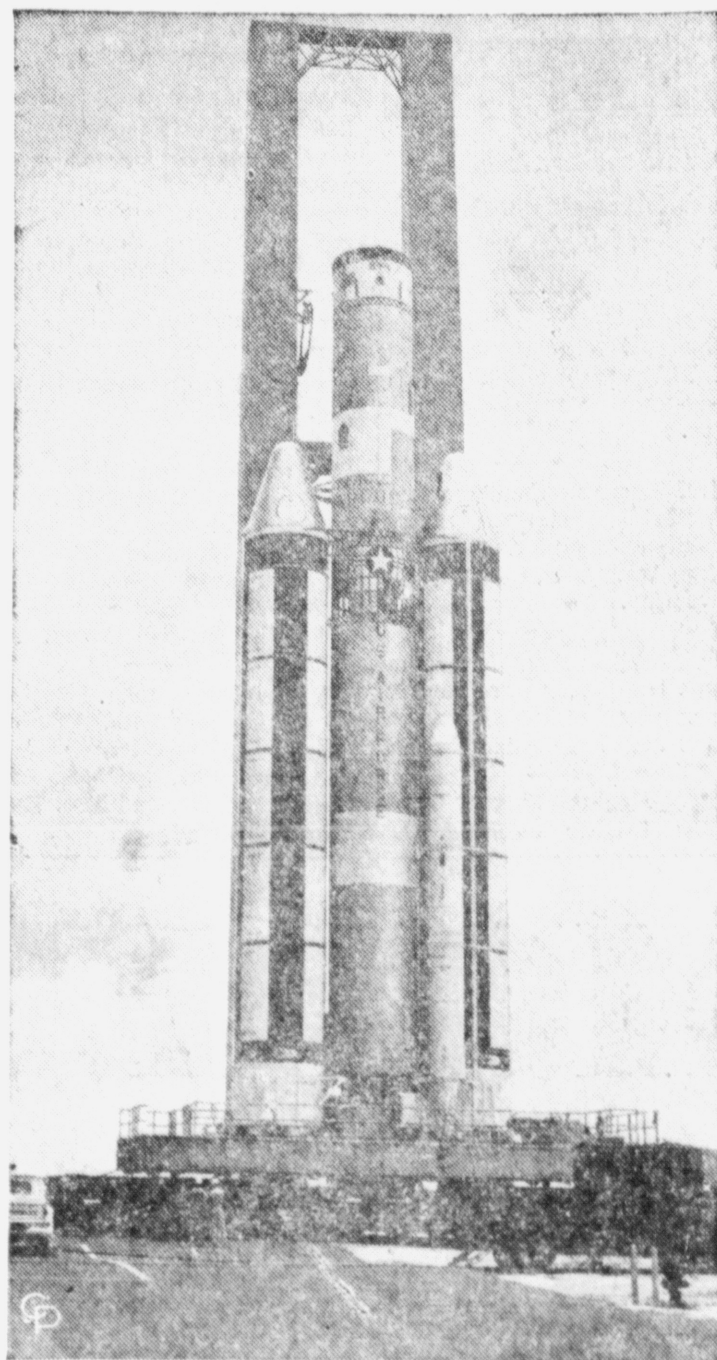

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police have released an unemployed chef from Exeter, N.H., who told homicide detectives he murdered his wife in New Hampshire four months ago. Authorities said Tuesday the shooting of Mrs. John Gillespie was an accident and occurred July 7, 1963, not four months ago.

Gillespie, 29, walked up to a Cleveland Patrolman Monday and said he wanted to confess to the murder of his wife. New Hampshire authorities, who flew here to talk to Gillespie, said there was no reason to hold him.

Ohio Civil Leaders Reject Education Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sixty-nine per cent of 4,125 civic leaders voting in a poll conducted by the Ohio Information Committee rejected the proposal to increase the state sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent, it was reported Tuesday. The OIC said 2,846 voted against the issue while 1,279, or 31 per cent, voted in favor.

The committee describes itself as a statewide, independent, nonpartisan, grass-roots, political education and political action organization.

New Names Cropping Up In Baseball Czar Search

CHICAGO (AP) — Several new names have come up in baseball's search for a new commissioner. The Associated Press learned today.

The major league club owners, eager to elect a successor to retiring Ford Frick before the annual baseball convention next month, have narrowed the field of candidates to five men.

Three of the names have never been mentioned publicly before. All are outside baseball.

These men, who most regarded as among the leading candidates, are Eugene M. Buckert, Secretary of the Air Force; Curtis E. LeMay, former Air Force chief of staff and head of the Strategic Air Command, and G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Another new name, said to be a real dark horse should baseball decide to pick one of its own is Louis Carroll, the attorney for the National League.

The fifth is an old face, American League President Jo Cronin, who according to one source, "has been getting an awful lot of 11th-hour support."

Under this plan, the commissioner would surround himself with administrative assistants in charge of radio, television, press, player relations and the pension plan.

None of the 20 owners, including the two-man screening committee, John E. Fetzer, president of the Detroit Tigers, and John Galbraith president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was in position to say whether the new commissioner would come from within or outside baseball.

The general feeling was the next commissioner would not be named at this meeting, despite the drastic reduction in the list of candidates. The field, narrowed to 18 at the last meeting in July, has been trimmed to 10 and then five within 24 hours.

Walter O'Malley, president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, was among those who believed that at least one more meeting at some future date would be necessary before a commissioner would be elected. A total of 14 votes, seven from each league, are necessary for election.

"I didn't expect them to name a commissioner when I got here," O'Malley said, "and I still don't expect one now. However, a lot has been accomplished. More than I expected."

Before getting down to the business of selecting a commissioner, baseball Tuesday signed a new radio-TV contract with the National Broadcasting Co. for a whopping $30.6 million. That includes TV rights for the World Series and All-Star Games as well as Game of the Week.

Baseball received $5.4 million last year for the Game of the Week from ABC, which elected not to renew its option for 1966.

AP Guesspert Picks Irish Over Trojans

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Why can't these scientists invent something to cure a head cold and a split-screen television set so recuperating football fans can watch both Southern California at Notre Dame and Michigan State at Purdue simultaneously?

Last week's clear-eyed predictions lowered the season's average to .730.

Here are this week's picks: Southern Cal at Notre Dame: A year ago, the Trojans wrecked Notre Dame's perfect season in the final quarter of the final game. This year it will be different. Southern California has Mike Garrett, but the Irish have Bill Wolski, Nick Eddy and Nick Tassas.

Michigan State over Purdue: Michigan State's defensive line held Michigan and Ohio State to a total of minus 70 yards in the Spartans' two outings. It is doubtful if Bob Griese, Purdue's competent QB, can find the key to open the door.

Nebraska over Colorado: The Cornhuskers will find a way to contain Wilmer Cooks.

Arkansas over North Texas State: Hardly a workout for the team that beat Texas a week ago.

Texas over Rice: The Longhorns are weary but fresh enough to beat Rice.

Louisiana State over South Carolina: The Tigers' Joe Labruzzo became of age against Kentucky a week ago.

Kentucky over Georgia: Bo Taylor, Georgia's best back, is out for the season with a broken leg.

Dartmouth over Harvard: Mickey Beard and Gene Ryzewicz give Dartmouth a potent one-two punch.

Alabama over Florida State: Steve Sloan to scalp the Seminoles.

Minnesota over Michigan: The Gophers, from whom little was expected, grow better week by week.

UCLA over California: But it will be close.

MIDWEST: Ohio State over Wisconsin, Kent State over Bowling Green, Miami (Ohio) over Ohio U., Illinois over Duke, Washington State over Indiana, Missouri over Iowa State, Oklahoma State over Kansas, Louisville over Marshall, Iowa over Northwestern, Western Michigan over Toledo, Tulsa over Cincinnati, Wichita over Southern Illinois.

Browns Plan Defense for Giants Star

CLEVELAND (AP) — Earl Morrall, 10-year veteran in the National Football League, said "I have a lot of things to prove to a lot of people" when he was traded from Detroit to New York at the start of this season.

It seems he has succeeded, and will try to continue Sunday when the Cleveland Browns visit Yankee Stadium.

Morrall had a great day last Sunday in a 35-27 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles. He specialized in the deep pass, throwing touchdowns of 89, 71 and 46 yards and a two-yard flip, for a total of 296 yards.

Morrall, fifth ranked among NFL passers with a 55.9 percentage (52 for 93), leads in one important statistic: His average gain per pass is 9.84 yards.

The 6-foot-2, 206-pound Morrall was the starting flinger for the Detroit Lions in 1963 and passed for 2,621 yards and 24 touchdowns.

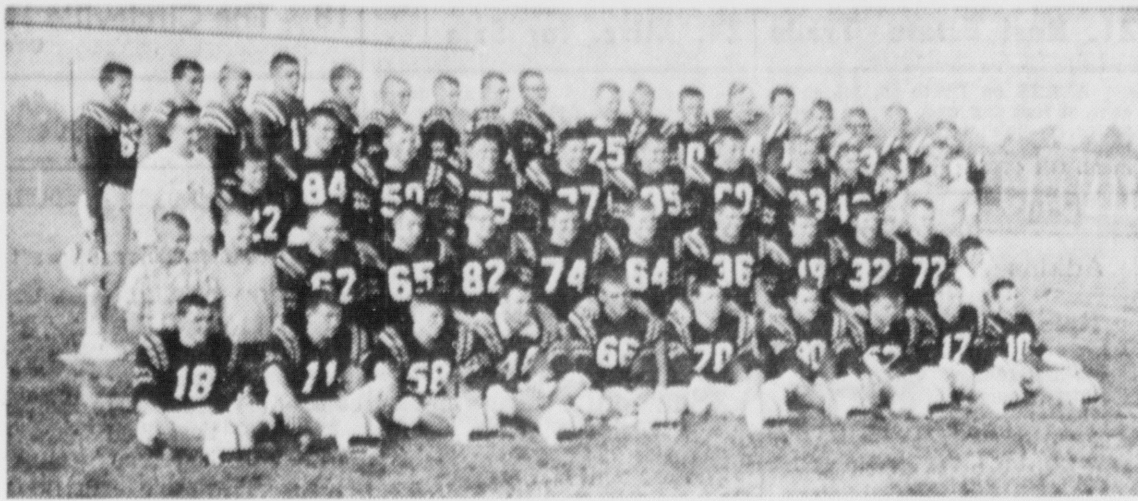

Erich Barnes, Browns defensive back, will try to stop Morrall's long bombs on familiar turf. Barnes, a former Giant who was traded to the Browns this season, will return to Yankee Stadium for the first time Sunday since the trade.

The Browns beat Dallas 23-17 last Sunday.

Baltimore End Wins Line Honors

NEW YORK (AP)—In a wild weekend of free-scoring ball games, the defense was overshadowed Sunday in the NFL but Orrell Braase of the Baltimore Colts was outstanding against the Washington Redskins. The veteran defensive end was named The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Braase, a 6-foot-4, 242-pounder, crashed through on Sonny Jurgensen and tipped his attempted screen pass into the hands of Billy Ray Smith on the Redskins 32, leading to a touchdown.

THE BRAVES — Logan Elm's football team plays at Westfall Friday in a Scioto Valley Conference game. It will be the homecoming game at Westfall. Both teams have 0-1 marks in the league.

Westfall, Logan Elm Game Highlights Area Grid Tilts

All three of the high school football teams in Pickaway County will be involved in key games Friday.

Teays Valley plays at Hamilton Twp. in a game that may well determine the team which will finish last in the South Suburban League.

In Scioto Valley Conference action, Westfall will host Logan Elm. Both have lost their only previous league starts.

The Mustangs were defeated by Piketon while the Braves lost to Unioto. Both teams have new head coaches — Jim Colville at Logan Elm and Joe Duncan at Westfall.

AND BOTH got off to a slow start. The Mustangs in their first five games were winless and had scored a total of 26 points. They were shut out in three of the five.

Suddenly last week the offense jelled for Duncan's charges and they piled up an amazing 420 yards offense, scoring more points (34) than they had in five previous games.

Logan Elm's record for the season stands at two games won, three lost and one tied.

With the exception of the Canal Winchester game, won 26-8 by the Braves, they have lacked a consistent offense.

Picked as the favorite team by SVC coaches before the grid season started, the Braves are now faced with the job of winning their three remaining games in order to be in contention for the title.

And even then they will need help from another league school.

PAINT VALLEY has won its only league game. Unioto has won one and tied one, while Piketon has one win, one loss and one tie on its record.

And Westfall is in much the same position. The only game in the league the Mustangs have played was the 24-0 loss to Piketon. An early season loss to Unioto and last Friday's win over Paint Valley do not go down in the records.

If they can defeat Logan Elm, Paint Valley and Unioto on successive weekends, the Mustangs can at least share

Giardello Plans To Tie Tiger's Tail

NEW YORK (AP) — The Tiger is hungry and on the prowl. This doesn't scare middleweight champion Joey Giardello one bit. He's prepared to tie knots in the Tiger's tail on Thursday night.

"This could be the last chance for me, so I must win," says Nigerian Dick Tiger. "I will win."

"That's nice," said Giardello, "but I hate to disappoint him. I'm gonna win. The thing that scares me is that I'm too confident. I can't see how I can lose."

The hard training was out of the way for both 160-pounders and now they had the long wait until they climb into the Madison Square Garden ring at 10 p.m., EDT, Thursday night for their 15-round return title fight.

Giardello, conqueror of the defending champion in their title fight at Atlantic City, N.J., Dec. 7, 1963, has won nine straight in nearly three years. At 35, he feels he still has a couple of more years to collect the big money that eluded him through most of his 18-year pro career.

Ex-Alcoholic Hockey Star Says 'God Sends Help'

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — "When you're ready, God sends you help," said Howie Young, a 28-year-old former alcoholic who was once one of sport's big drawing cards.

"He sent me help one morning when I was lying in a drunk tank in downtown Los Angeles. I was lying there feeling like an empty beer bottle—something not worth anything to anybody. I never felt so low."

"I wasn't on skid road—I was on death road."

Young, who fought his way to the top in the National Hockey League and then drank his way to near-oblivion, said he hasn't had a drink since May 4.

"They kicked me out of the NHL because I couldn't stay sober," Young said. "They never questioned my playing ability; it was my conduct outside the rink."

NHL President Clarence Campbell told Young:

"You are the worst detriment to hockey that ever laced on a pair of skates."

Despite that he remained in the NHL four seasons, three with the Detroit Red Wings and one with the Chicago Black Hawks.

The explanation is simple. Despite his behavior and a record 273 minutes in penalties in 1932-28-year-old former alcoholic.

He left the NHL after 39 games in 1963-64 and has been with the Los Angeles Blades of the Western League ever since.

The fans, intrigued by the frequent stories of his exploits, flocked to see him in action.

Along with jobs and thousands of dollars, drinking cost him his marriage.

The road back began May 4 when a cellmate in the tank at the Los Angeles jail described Alcoholics Anonymous to Young.

"All I want is to stay sober," he said. "I've got my life back, baby. Who knows, maybe I'm all through as a hockey player. But that's immaterial. I was on death road—not skid road—for 12 years. In my mind was the certainty that I would be either dead or insane by the time I reached 30. Now I know if I take that first drink I'll die or go crazy. One drink would sign my death warrant and I don't want to die."

"I don't want to die."

Mele Voted Top Manager In American

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Mele, who led the Minnesota Twins to a runaway victory in the American League pennant race, was the overwhelming choice today as the circuit's Manager of the Year in the annual Associated Press poll.

Mele collected 328 votes in the balloting by 331 sports writers and sportscasters. Gil Hodges of the Washington Senators received the other three.

This is the first time that Mele has been named the AL's top manager. He took over as the Twins' pilot in June 1961, replacing Cookie Lavagetto.

Mele, 42 years old, took his team to the front early in the 1965 season amid reports that his job was in jeopardy. Despite damaging injuries to slugging third baseman Harmon Killebrew and star pitcher Camilo Pascual that sidelined each for almost two months, the Twins led by 10 games two weeks before the close of the campaign.

They finished seven games in front of the second-place Chicago White Sox with a 102-60 record.

Charles (Bubba) Smith, 268-pound 6-foot-7 Michigan State end, was a star basketball player at Pollard High in Beaumont, Tex.

Big Game Period Takes Heavy Toll

DURANGO, Col. (AP) — Eleven hunters have died in the first four days of Colorado's big game hunting season. At the same time, the game kill is reported far below last year's bag.

Shooting accounted for three deaths and seven men died of heart attacks in the high country west of the Continental Divide. One hunter was crushed to death beneath a jeep.

A Game, Fish and Parks Department spokesman said deer kills are down 41 per cent and elk kills off 22 per cent compared with last year. The season opened last Saturday.

The season has not been without its bizarre incidents. Don Mallison of Hutchinson, Minn., had two horses in his truck Tuesday in White River National Forest, a northwestern Colorado elk region.

When the trail became steep, Mallison stopped the truck, unloaded the horses and tied them to a tree. He said he had walked about 40 feet from the animals when he heard a shot and one horse fell dead. Then a second shot rang out and the second horse toppled over.

Mallison could find no trace of the person firing the shots.

A second meeting has been scheduled Sunday by Teays Valley Independent cage league director Russ Gregg.

The fans, intrigued by the frequent stories of his exploits, flocked to see him in action. Along with jobs and thousands of dollars, drinking cost him his marriage.
The road back began May 4 when a cellmate in the tank at the Los Angeles jail described Alcoholics Anonymous to Young.
"All I want is to stay sober," he said. "I've got my life back, baby. Who knows, maybe I'm all through as a hockey player. But that's immaterial. I was on death row—not skid road—for 12 years. In my mind was the certainty that I would be either dead or insane by the time I reached 30. Now I know if I take that first drink I'll die or go crazy. One drink would sign my death warrant and I don't want to die."
"I don't want to die."

Browns Plan
Defense for Giants Star

CLEVELAND (AP) — Earl Morrall, 10-year veteran in the National Football League, said "I have a lot of things to prove to a lot of people" when he was traded from Detroit to New York at the start of this season.
It seems he has succeeded, and will try to continue Sunday when the Cleveland Browns visit Yankee Stadium.
Morrall had a great day last Sunday in a 35-27 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles. He specialized in the deep pass, throwing touchdowns of 89, 71 and 46 yards and a two-yard flip, for a total of 296 yards.
Morrall, fifth ranked among NFL passers with a 55.9 percentage (52 for 93), leads in one important statistic: His average gain per pass is 9.84 yards.
The 6-foot-2, 206-pound Morrall was the starting flinger for the Detroit Lions in 1963 and passed for 2,621 yards and 24 touchdowns.
Erich Barnes, Browns defensive back, will try to stop Morrall's long bombs on familiar turf. Barnes, a former Giant who was traded to the Browns this season, will return to Yankee Stadium for the first time Sunday since the trade.
The Browns beat Dallas 23-17 last Sunday.

Baltimore End
Wins Line Honors

NEW YORK (AP)—In a wild weekend of free-scoring ball games, the defense was overshadowed Sunday in the NFL but Ordell Braase of the Baltimore Colts was outstanding against the Washington Redskins. The veteran defensive end was named The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.
Braase, a 6-foot-4, 242-pounder, crashed through on Sonny Jurgensen and tipped his attempted screen pass into the hands of Billy Ray Smith on the Redskins 32, leading to a touchdown.

THE BRAVES — Logan Elm's football team plays at Westfall Friday in a Scioto Valley Conference game. It will be the homecoming game at Westfall. Both teams have 0-1 marks in the league.

Westfall, Logan Elm Game
Highlights Area Grid Tilts

All three of the high school football teams in Pickaway County will be involved in key games Friday.
Teays Valley plays at Hamilton Twp. in a game that may well determine the team which will finish last in the South Suburban League.
In Scioto Valley Conference action, Westfall will host Logan Elm. Both have lost their only previous league starts.
The Mustangs were defeated by Piketon while the Braves lost to Unioto. Both teams have new head coaches — Jim Colville at Logan Elm and Joe Duncan at Westfall.
AND BOTH got off to a slow start. The Mustangs in their first five games were winless and had scored a total of 26 points. They were shut out in three of the five.
Suddenly last week the offense jelled for Duncan's charges and they piled up an amazing 420 yards offense, scoring more points (34) than they had in five previous games.
Logan Elm's record for the season stands at two games won, three lost and one tied.
With the exception of the Canal Winchester game, won 26-8 by the Braves, they have lacked a consistent offense.
Picked as the favorite team by SVC coaches before the grid season started, the Braves are now faced with the job of winning their three remaining games in order to be in contention for the title.
And even then they will need help from another league school.
PAINT VALLEY has won its only league game. Unioto has won one and tied one, while Piketon has one win, one loss and one tie on its record.
And Westfall is in much the same position. The only game in the league the Mustangs have played was the 24-0 loss to Piketon. An early season loss to Unioto and last Friday's win over Paint Valley do not go down in the records.
If they can defeat Logan Elm, Paint Valley and Unioto on successive weekends, the Mustangs can at least share

Giardello
Plans To Tie
Tiger's Tail
NEW YORK (AP) — The Tiger is hungry and on the prowl. This doesn't scare middleweight champion Joey Giardello one bit. He's prepared to tie knots in the Tiger's tail on Thursday night.
"This could be the last chance for me, so I must win," says Nigerian Dick Tiger. "I will win."
"That's nice," said Giardello, "but I hate to disappoint him. I'm gonna win. The thing that scares me is that I'm too confident. I can't see how I can lose."
The hard training was out of the way for both 160-pounders and now they had the long wait until they climb into the Madison Square Garden ring at 10 p.m., EDT, Thursday night for their 15-round return title fight.
Giardello, conqueror of the defending champion in their title fight at Atlantic City, N.J., Dec. 7, 1963, has won nine straight in nearly three years. At 35, he feels he still has a couple of more years to collect the big money that eluded him through most of his 18-year pro career.

Mele Voted
Top Manager
In American

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Mele, who led the Minnesota Twins to a runaway victory in the American League pennant race, was the overwhelming choice today as the circuit's Manager of the Year in the annual Associated Press poll.
Mele collected 328 votes in the balloting by 331 sports writers and sportscasters. Gil Hodges of the Washington Senators received the other three.
This is the first time that Mele has been named the AL's top manager. He took over as the Twins' pilot in June 1961, replacing Cookie Lavagetto.
Mele, 42 years old, took his team to the front early in the 1965 season amid reports that his job was in jeopardy. Despite damaging injuries to slugging third baseman Harmon Killebrew and star pitcher Camilo Pascual that sidelined each for almost two months, the Twins led by 10 games two weeks before the close of the campaign. They finished seven games in front of the second-place Chicago White Sox with a 102-60 record.
Charles (Bubba) Smith, 268-pound 6-foot-7 Michigan State end, was a star basketball player at Pollard High in Beaumont, Tex.

Ex-Alcoholic Hockey Star
Says 'God Sends Help'

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — "When you're ready, God sends you help," said Howie Young, a 28-year-old former alcoholic who was once one of sport's big drawing cards.
"He sent me help one morning when I was lying in a drunk tank in downtown Los Angeles. I was lying there feeling like an empty beer bottle—something not worth anything to anybody. I never felt so low.
"I wasn't on skid road—I was on death row."
Young, who fought his way to the top in the National Hockey League and then drank his way to near-oblivion, said he hasn't had a drink since May 4.
"They kicked me out of the NHL because I couldn't stay sober," Young said. "They never questioned my playing ability; it was my conduct outside the rink."
NHL President Clarence Campbell told Young: "You are the worst detriment to hockey that ever laced on a pair of skates."
Despite that he remained in the NHL four seasons, three with the Detroit Red Wings and one with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Kent Set To Play Host To BG in Vital Battle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Memorial Stadium in Kent should be filled to capacity Saturday when the Golden Flashes battle Bowling Green in the Mid-American Conference game of the week.

Kent State coach Leo Stang and Falcon mentor Bob Gibson agree on one thing—the contest is a crucial one for both schools.

Bowling Green (2-0) needed a late score to get by Toledo 21-14 last weekend and Kent also tallied late to come out with a 10-10 tie against Western Michigan.

Kent (2-0-1) certainly has enough incentive. For one thing, Homecoming Day is likely to draw 20,000 partisan rooters. For another, there's that 41-0 licking the Falcons imposed last year, Kent's worst of the season.

Gibson said Kent "probably is the best team we've faced all year. They have good size and are well balanced. Frankly, they may be too strong for us."

But the Falcon boss is quick to add that his offensive unit may be coming around. He particularly was pleased with his club's first touchdown drive against the Rockets, an 81-yard march in 15 plays.

Miami is at home to Ohio University and Marshall, beaten by Miami after four straight, is out side the loop against Louisville. Western (0-2-1) plays at Toledo (1-2) in the other league game. Miami's versatile Bruce Matte ran and passed his way to Back of the Week honors and Ohio University's rugged Billy Biggs Jr. tackled his way into the lineman of the week spotlight.

light in the Mid-American Conference.

Matte, whose brother Tom starred at Ohio State, had a hand in 26 of Miami's 28 points as the Redskins bounced Marshall from the ranks of the unbeaten, 28-7, last Saturday.

Biggs, a defensive end and tackle, turned in 14 tackles and assisted on six more as Ohio just missed winning its first game of the year over unbeaten Xavier. Xavier finally ended up on top, 21-19.

Against Xavier, the 6-foot 290-pound Biggs burst through the Xavier line repeatedly to harass the Musketeers' ace passer, Carroll Williams, spilling him for at least 40 yards in losses.

Miami's football brochure says that Matte "needs work on passing, particularly in developing consistency in his delivery."

His performance against Marshall showed he may have developed that consistency. The Cleveland junior completed 10 of 16 aeriels for 113 yards and two touchdowns. He also flipped a two-point conversion pass and scored twice himself on short runs.

Other backs considered were Al Bogan of Ohio U., Jack Anderson of Western Michigan, Willie Asburg of Kent, Jim Berkeley of Toledo, Mike Weger of Bowling Green and Andy Socha of Marshall.

Nominees in the line included Ron Domin of Kent, Heath Wingate of Bowling Green, Fred Simpson of Marshall, Nelson Jackson of Western and Frank Dwyer of Miami.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson rode a landslide back into the White House less than a year ago. Student of politics Theodore H. White, however, apparently could not turn up any aspects of the campaign — for the presidency that were not fairly obvious at the time.

Thus "The Making of the President, 1964" on CBS Tuesday night was primarily a conscientious review of the events set in motion by the assassination of John F. Kennedy, and it rarely seemed to go beneath the surface.

It was a rather plodding effort in general, except for the initial segments of the 90-minute program dealing with the fierce struggle for control of the Republican party and Gov. William Scranton's, last-minute effort to halt Barry Goldwater's well-organized steamroller.

Perhaps it was the timing, but more likely it was that less colorful personalities were involved, but "The Making of the President, 1964" was a far less satisfying program than the first one supervised by White, "The Making of the President, 1960."

ABC Tuesday sent out the anticipated obituary notices for "Shindig" the rock 'n' roll program that was such a hit with the teen-age crowd last season.

The network cut it in half and started its Thursday and Saturday evening programs with it this season.

The musical show failed to survive the operation — or perhaps the fickle teens just dropped it. Anyway, its Nielsen ratings put it down at the bottom of the popularity list. But ABC has not given up its attempted conquest of the youthful audience. Warming up in the wings is something called "Batman," an adventure series about a fellow who disguises himself as a bat to help solve crimes.

This will be on twice a week — Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 EST — starting in January. It is based on a comic strip, but ABC publicists are earnestly attempting to sell the idea that it will be "hip, sophisticated and tongue-in-cheek."

Recommended tonight: "Eagle in a Cage," NBC, 7:30-9 EDT. Hall of Fame drama special about Napoleon with Trevor Howard and James Daly; "My Name is Barbra," CBS, 10-11, re-run of last season's fine one-woman show.

Miami's football brochure says that Matte "needs work on passing, particularly in developing consistency in his delivery."

His performance against Marshall showed he may have developed that consistency. The Cleveland junior completed 10 of 16 aerials for 113 yards and two touchdowns. He also flipped a two-point conversion pass and scored twice himself on short runs.

Other backs considered were Al Bogan of Ohio U., Jack Anderson of Western Michigan, Willie Asburg of Kent, Jim Berkeley of Toledo, Mike Weger of Bowling Green and Andy Socha of Marshall.

Nominees in the line included Ron Domin of Kent, Heath Wingate of Bowling Green, Fred Simpson of Marshall, Nelson Jackson of Western and Frank Dwyer of Miami.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson rode a landslide back into the White House less than a year ago. Student of politics Theodore H. White, however, apparently could not turn up any aspects of the campaign — for the presidency that were not fairly obvious at the time.

Thus "The Making of the President, 1964" on CBS Tuesday night was primarily a conscientious review of the events set in motion by the assassination of John F. Kennedy, and it rarely seemed to go beneath the surface.

It was a rather plodding effort in general, except for the initial segments of the 90-minute program dealing with the fierce struggle for control of the Republican party and Gov. William Scranton's, last-minute effort to halt Barry Goldwater's well-organized steamroller.

Perhaps it was the timing, but more likely it was that less colorful personalities were involved, but "The Making of the President, 1964" was a far less satisfying program than the first one supervised by White. "The Making of the President, 1960."

ABC Tuesday sent out the anticipated obituary notices for "Shindie" the rock 'n' roll program that was such a hit with the teen-age crowd last season.

The network cut it in half and started its Thursday and Saturday evening programs with it this season.

The musical show failed to survive the operation — or perhaps the fickle teens just dropped it. Anyway, its Nielsen ratings put it down at the bottom of the popularity list. But ABC has not given up its attempted conquest of the youthful audience. Warming up in the wings is something called "Batman," an adventure series about a fellow who disguises himself as a bat to help solve crimes.

This will be on twice a week — Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 EST — starting in January. It is based on a comic strip, but ABC publicists are earnestly attempting to sell the idea that it will be "hip, sophisticated and tongue-in-cheek."

Recommended tonight: "Eagle in a Cage," NBC, 7:30-9 EDT, Hall of Fame drama special about Napoleon with Trevor Howard and James Daly; "My Name is Barbra," CBS, 10-11, re-run of last season's fine one-woman show.

News of World in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and just back from a visit to Viet Nam, predicts the fighting there will be over by Christmas 1966.

By that time, Young told a news conference Tuesday, he thinks there either will be a negotiated cease fire or the Viet Cong may simply cease to fight.

Young said morale of U.S. troops in Viet Nam is excellent, adding that recent demonstrations against the draft and U.S. policy in Viet Nam "have not affected our soldiers at all."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Highway Department said today it has applied for a $122,559 bonus payment from the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for having cleared billboards from a 25.3 mile section of interstate highway in western Ohio.

The section begins at the Hamilton-Butler County line at Sharonville and goes north to a point near Ohio 725 below West Carrollton.

Director P. E. Masheter said Ohio also plans to apply for bonus payments for 38.2 miles of Interstate 90 in Lake and Ashtabula counties, valued at $180,000 and 97.3 miles of I-71 from the Columbus city limits north to Ohio 18 in Medina County for $431,000.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—New claims for unemployment insurance declined last week but continuing claims showed an increase, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported today.

The queen will be determined in an all-campus election Oct. 27 and will be announced and crowned by President Novice G. Fawcett at the homecoming dance Friday night, Oct. 29. She and her court — the next four top vote-getters — will preside over that weekend's activities, including the Ohio State-Minnesota football game Saturday.

Finalists are Leslie Ridenour, Dayton; June Channing, Fairview Park; Sharon Slabaugh, Columbus; Norma Hilbert, St. Albans, W. Va.; Sheila Lebb, Beachwood; Marianne Leoni, Tayland; Sharon Phillian, Delaware; Pat Brennan, Chagrin Falls; Tricia Emish, Poland, and Linda Hoyle, Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 26-year-old Shadeville woman has pleaded innocent of first-degree murder in the shotgun slaying of her husband Sunday.

The charge was lodged Tuesday against Mrs. Jacqueline Lock, who the Franklin County sheriff's office said admitted she shot her husband because he beat her. Edsal Wayne Lock, 31, died after he was shot in the stomach.

URBANA, Ohio (AP) — Two young Dayton men escaped possible death by jumping from their car just before a New York Central freight train demolished it at the north edge of Urbana Tuesday.

BERNARDSVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the late president, is leasing a small farm in the secluded and exclusive Somerset Hills.

Miss Pamela Turnure, the former first lady's press secretary, said today in New York, "Mrs. Kennedy chose the site because she has a number of friends in the area."

Miss Turnure added, "she will use the place on weekends and continue to live in New York."

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—That next steak of yours may taste better because stockyards are offering country club facilities.

Swimming pools, Swedish baths and artificially perfumed air around livestock feed lots are now considered necessities. They provide livestock a kind and efficient trip to market, especially in heavily populated communities which have grown around once isolated yards.

John F. O'Dea, vice president of the Denver Union Stockyards said Tuesday, while the swimming pools provide relief on a hot day they also contain an insecticide that kills harmful parasites and makes animals more comfortable.

Air conditioning, O'Dea said, is a smart move "because cool, comfortable animals don't melt off pounds that mean profits for the industry."

MANILA (AP)—One Filipino was killed and 43 others were injured when a twin-engine Philippine airliner crashed into a Philippine air force barracks area today, an airline official announced.

The Philippine Airlines DC3 had 35 passengers and a crew of three aboard when it clipped parts of two barracks and the bachelor officers quarters after taking off from Manila airport.

One passenger was killed. The injured included the other 34 passengers, the three crewmen and six air force personnel from the barracks, spokesmen said.

The plane was on a flight from Manila to Legaspi, in southern Luzon.

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — Two U.S. Army prisoners were asphyxiated when a fire broke out in the brig of the troopship Gen. W. H. Gordon, informed sources reported today.

The sources said guards attempted to rescue the two soldiers but were unable to save them. Military officials were reluctant to comment on the incident, but informed sources said the fire broke out just after the ship left Naha for an undisclosed destination.

A Navy spokesman refused to identify the soldiers until their next of kin were informed.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A plane of the International Control Commission is missing on a flight from Vientiane to Hanoi, a Canadian official of the ICC said today.

2 Big Cong Drives Suffer Heavy Losses

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong launched two big attacks on government troops in South Viet Nam's central highlands during the night and suffered heavy casualties.

A U.S. Army helicopter was shot down during one of the battles and the four Americans aboard were killed. An estimated 150-200 guerrillas were killed in the two actions.

Supported by heavy air attacks, a force of 300 mountain tribesmen and 10 American advisers was holding off hundreds of guerrillas laying siege to a Special Forces camp at Plei Me, about 17 miles from the Cambodian border.

The Viet Cong had lost an estimated 60 to 100 men but kept up their attack throughout the day. Casualties among the defenders were reported light.

U.S. advisers said government troops beat off attacks by two Viet Cong battalions in a fierce battle in the Ba Long valley, about 400 miles north of Saigon near the North Viet Nam border.

The advisers reported 94 Viet Cong bodies had been found and "they're still counting." Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

"You know they were hurt badly when they left so many of their dead lying around," said one American. "You can rest assured they carried some more away."

Guerrilla bodies were strewn in the mud and barbed wire around the government outpost.

The Viet Cong tried to cross a moat with a bamboo bridge but a mine detonated from the main outpost stopped them.

The government forces also took one wounded captive, a regular North Vietnamese soldier who told intelligence officers that he was with the Viet Cong 800th Battalion which rendezvoused two days ago west of Hue. He said he came from North Viet Nam six months ago with other Hanoi regulars to fill out the battalion.

A large store of Viet Cong weapons was seized, including seven Chinese antitank weapons, four machine guns and a rocket launcher.

The American helicopter was shot down during an attack by 200 to 500 Viet Cong on the Plei Me Special Forces camp, 25 miles south of Pleiku.

Other U.S. planes pounded the enemy. Twenty Viet Cong bodies were counted on the barbed wire around the camp, and a U.S. observer said 60 to 100 guerrilla bodies were sighted in the general area.

In a casualty report for the week ended last Saturday, a U.S. military spokesman said the Viet Cong lost 943 men killed or captured, while South Vietnamese casualties totaled 662.

There were 35 Americans killed in action and 205 wounded, hte spokesman said. Government casualties were 196 killed, 416 wounded and 50 captured or missing.

Astronomers Hint Possible Celestial Show by Comet

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The comet Ikeya-Seki raced within a few million miles of the sun today — as astronomers differed on whether it will put on the spectacular celestial show forecast for tonight and Thursday morning.

The comet, streaking in from the edge of the solar system, is expected to whip around the sun and start back during a five-hour period beginning at 10 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time.

Astronomers have predicted solar radiation would light up the frozen gases in the comet's 10-million-mile tail and make it visible during sunrise and sunset hours around the globe.

Scientists who tried to observe the comet from a plane over the Pacific Tuesday said it was brightening slowly, however, and might not even be visible to the naked eye tonight.

California Institute of Technology astronomers said the comet might only be following the behavior of a comet which passed near the sun in 1882.

That one virtually disappeared from view for two days before it reached the sun, then turned very bright and exploded into several pieces. This could happen to Ikeya-Seki, the Caltech astronomers said.

The airborne expedition, flying from Honolulu to Midway Island and back, hopes to observe the comet at sunset today when the plane is near Midway and again at sunrise as it approaches Hawaii.

Mid-Pacific is one of the best places to view the comet during its hairpin loop around the sun. The other side of the earth will be in darkness during those hours. The swing-around also may be visible from Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia and parts of Asia.

Other parts of the world may be able to see the comet before and after the swing around.

Tonight the comet will linger in the sky a few minutes after the sun sets and will precede the sun above the horizon Thursday morning as the earth's rotation brings them into view.

At both sunset and sunrise around the globe the horizon may block out the sun enough for the comet to stand out clearly, especially if it brightens to predicted intensity.

But comets are unpredictable, say astronomers, and this one is no exception.

News of World in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and just back from a visit to Viet Nam, predicts the fighting there will be over by Christmas 1966.

By that time, Young told a news conference Tuesday, he thinks there either will be a negotiated cease fire or the Viet Cong may simply cease to fight.

Young said morale of U.S. troops in Viet Nam is excellent, adding that recent demonstrations against the draft and U.S. policy in Viet Nam "have not affected our soldiers at all."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Highway Department said today it has applied for a $122,559 bonus payment from the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for having cleared billboards from a 25.3 mile section of interstate highway in western Ohio.

The section begins at the Hamilton-Butler County line at Sharonville and goes north to a point near Ohio 725 below West Carrollton.

Director P. E. Masheter said Ohio also plans to apply for bonus payments for 38.2 miles of Interstate 90 in Lake and Ashtabula counties, valued at $180,000 and 97.3 miles of I-71 from the Columbus city limits north to Ohio 18 in Medina County for $431,000.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—New claims for unemployment insurance declined last week but continuing claims showed an increase, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported today.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—That next steak of yours may taste better because stockyards are offering country club facilities.

Swimming pools, Swedish baths and artificially perfumed air around livestock feed lots are now considered necessities. They provide livestock a kind and efficient trip to market, especially in heavily populated communities which have grown around once isolated yards.

John F. O'Dea, vice president of the Denver Union Stockyards said Tuesday, while the swimming pools provide relief on a hot day they also contain an insecticide that kills harmful parasites and makes animals more comfortable.

Air conditioning, O'Dea said, is a smart move "because cool, comfortable animals don't melt off pounds that mean profits for the industry."

MANILA (AP)—One Filipino was killed and 43 others were injured when a twin-engine Philippine airliner crashed into a Philippine air force barracks area today, an airline official announced.

The Philippine Airlines DC8 had 35 passengers and a crew of three aboard when it clipped parts of two barracks and the bachelor officers quarters after taking off from Manila airport.

One passenger was killed. The injured included the other 34 passengers, the three crewmen and six air force personnel from the barracks, spokesmen said.

2 Big Cong Drives Suffer Heavy Losses

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong launched two big attacks on government troops in South Viet Nam's central highlands during the night and suffered heavy casualties.

A U.S. Army helicopter was shot down during one of the battles and the four Americans aboard were killed. An estimated 150-200 guerrillas were killed in the two actions.

Supported by heavy air attacks, a force of 300 mountain tribesmen and 10 American advisers was holding off hundreds of guerrillas laying siege to a Special Forces camp at Plei Me, about 17 miles from the Cambodian border.

The Viet Cong had lost an estimated 60 to 100 men but kept up their attack throughout the day. Casualties among the defenders were reported light.

U.S. advisers said government troops beat off attacks by two Viet Cong battalions in a fierce battle in the Ba Long valley, about 400 miles north of Saigon near the North Viet Nam border.

The advisers reported 94 Viet Cong bodies had been counted and "they're still counting." Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

"You know they were hurt badly when they left so many of their dead lying around," said one American. "You can rest assured they carried some more away."

Guerrilla bodies were strewn in the mud and barbed wire around the government outpost.

The Viet Cong tried to cross a moat with a bamboo bridge but a mine detonated from the main outpost stopped them.

The government forces also took one wounded captive, a regular North Vietnamese soldier who told intelligence officers that he was with the Viet Cong 800th Battalion which rendezvoused two days ago west of Hue. He said he came from North Viet Nam six months ago with other Hanoi regulars to fill out the battalion.

A large store of Viet Cong weapons was seized, including seven Chinese antitank weapons, four machine guns and a rocket launcher.

The American helicopter was shot down during an attack by 200 to 500 Viet Cong on the Plei Me Special Forces camp, 25 miles south of Pleiku.

Other U.S. planes pounded the enemy. Twenty Viet Cong bodies were counted on the barbed wire around the camp, and a U.S. observer said 60 to 100 guerrilla bodies were sighted in the general area.

In a casualty report for the week ending last Saturday, a U.S. military spokesman said the Viet Cong lost 943 men killed or captured, while South Vietnamese casualties totaled 662.

There were 35 Americans killed in action and 205 wounded, he spokesman said. Government casualties were 196 killed, 416 wounded and 50 captured or missing.

Judge Cramer, a Jew assigned from Southern Ohio to hear the case after the local judge disqualified himself said, "The relationship between the church and the board might even be described as a holy alliance..."

But, he said, hiring nuns wearing religious garb as teachers "does not convert the school at which they teach into a sectarian school or create sectarian control" outlawed by both state and federal constitutions.

And, he ruled, there is no law against segregation by religion and no demonstration that this is harmful to students.

When Moore filed his suit, the schools had regular religious programs in the three schools with Catholic students. The district later changed this to a program which released pupils one hour during the school day for religious training outside the school buildings.

The judge ordered the board to stop this practice.
